When a SEED is first planted in soil, it is unknown as to

WHAT IT WILL ULTIMATELY

BECOME.

At Grand River we start of

as a seed, and develop as we face new obstacles.

We walk through the doors each day realy to take risks.

Through Life's opportunities

we are nurtured, allowing us

TO BEGIN NEW ROLES.

We will

STRIVE TOWARDS OUR

full potential remembering that we will always be ...

Rooted in Grand.

Most People Use Mud Masks... Flattening and mashing her plaster, Lauren Cathcart prepares to create a mask for her art class.

Three's Company... A squished Charlene Doering, Mallory Bresolin and Tiffany Parker attempt to see how many people they can fit in Josh Wisted's pants. The girls had made a bet that all three of them could fit. Turns out they were right, much to Josh's surprise.

Get In My Belly... A very full Brian Bauman and George Vrentzos sit back and stretch after the ever so popular Football potluck dinner. Each player signed up to bring in a different dish for everyone to feast on and enjoy.

Shhhh! Hard at work in the library, Elyse Hargreaves and James McLeod find a quiet place to study. Having the new library has made it much easier for students to get work done in a more secluded environment.

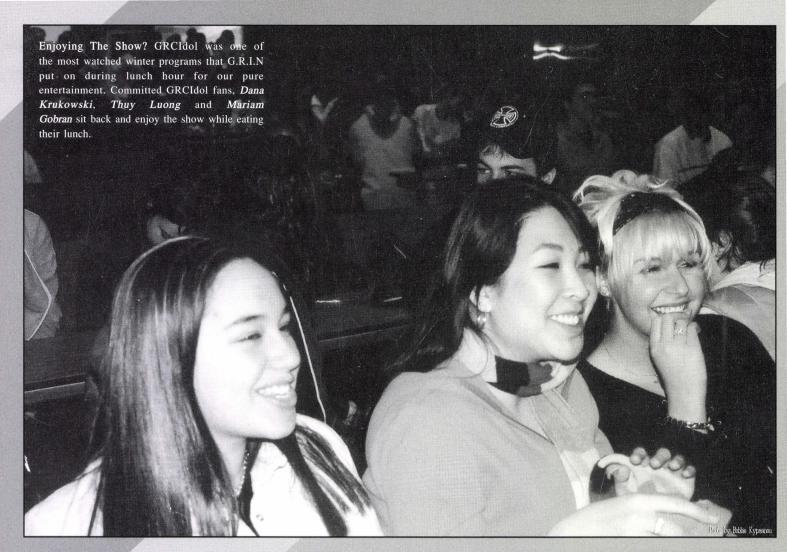

Hitting The Books... Trying to get ahead, Jordan Cobourne and Shawn Anandakumar sneak in some studying over the lunch hour. The caf has always been one of the favourite places for students to catch up on their school work.

Down For The Count... With some time left before the end of lunch, Travis Coyle and Garrett Suska lock wrists for a quick arm wrestle. Unfortunately for Garrett, Travis was the winner of this particular match.

Saved By The Bell...

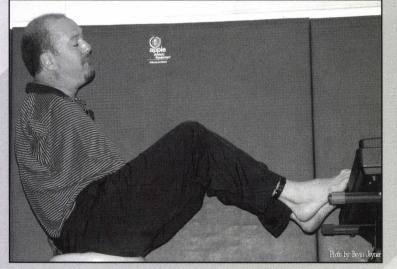

Kickin' Back And Livin It Up!

Did you know George Vrentzos' feet are size 13.5?

Talk About Talent... One of Canada's most talented motivational speakers, Alvin Law, was a guest at one of our Assemblies. Mr. Law amazed us all when he played the piano with his toes. "He made me realize not to take what you have for granted," exclaimed Sam Barakatt.

Testing, Testing, 123... Everyone knows that you need a VERY loud voice, a HUGE personality and a GREAT sense of humour to host a Pep Assembly. Who has all of those qualities? Mike Guil and Mike Richer of course. Everyone including Paul Milne agreed that "the video was simply phenomenal."

WEVE COL SUITE

hat is school spirit? Some people like Emma Hurst believe that, "School Spirit is when everyone is rooting for the exact same cause." Or maybe Aman Ahluwalia is right, "School Spirit is coming to school with a smile and supporting our fellow Rens." Well, there isn't really a right or wrong answer as to what school spirit is, but it exists in all of us. Everyone is a part of our spirit, from the All-Star athletes to the teachers. Nobody can be left out. We are all a part of this school; Grand River will forever be our home.

If you have ever been to one of Grand River's hockey games you would realize that Renegade fans are like no other, they root for their team one hundred percent. "It's not everyday that you see screaming teenagers with foam fingers and posters at an after school hockey game," remarked Rachel Daub. It's obvious we're not only recognized for our athletic excellence but also for our remarkably spirited students like Nick Andress who happens to be our Spirit Rep. You can recognize him fully dressed in an authentic Native costume complete with a traditional head dress, only on special occasions of course. Marco Kennema our Charities Rep, was spotted beating the spirit drum at a Senior Girls' Basketball game last December. Team member Jill Simmons jokingly remarked, "Marco is my hero!"

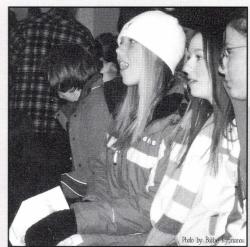

Inviting guests into our school is a part of our spirited hospitality. One of our memorable guests was motivational speaker, Alvin Law. Even though Mr. Law was born with no arms it hasn't stopped him from giving an astonishing performance on the piano. "He showed us that he has difficulties like we do and doesn't complain about it," acknowledged Terrie Sutton. It's needless to say that he donated a little piece of his personality to our spirit and gave us something no one else could. He inspired us to be proud, independent and to value our own individuality. This is why the students of Grand River are like no other. Our school makes us who we are, and because of that we are and forever will be rooted in Grand.

Bobbie Kyprianou

We're Number One, We're Number One... Showing her school spirit Ashton Shantz roots for her number one team, GRCI's Renegade Hockey team. "It was so exciting to watch Grand River play against the Waterloo Regional Police," admits Sara McKie. Lots of fans came to cheer for this game including students, Brendan Arnott, Justin Bauman and Yesy Vallejo.

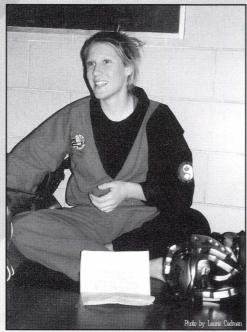

Pumping Up The Energy... Grand River's own Kung Fu Champion Amanda Fraser gets ready for a brief presentation which she puts on for her fellow students during a Pep Assembly. She has travelled to many local and international places, including Mexico, for competitions.

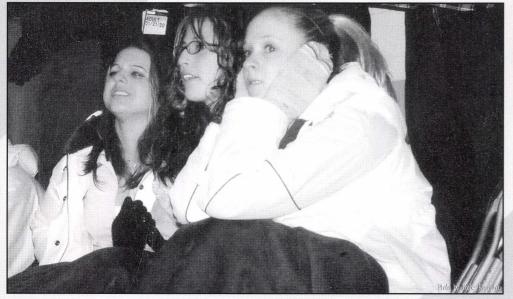

Go Team Go... Dedicated fans, Lindsay Stevenson, Erin Brennan, and Nikki Kosslyn closely watch at the hockey game as the opposing team scores a goal against our Renegades...ouch! As always our Hockey Rens had a very successful season.

Brrrr, It's Cold In Here... Talk about true school spirit. Kelly Baita, Maggie Barakatt, and Jenn Dynerowicz stick it out in the freezing cold Grand River Arena to cheer on their fellow Renegades. Our boys lost against the Waterloo Regional Police.

Done At Last! One down, 199 to go! Aman Ahluwalia and Eric Houston share a high five as they complete the morning's announcements. This small, yet determined group of students works hard each morning to let us know what is going on at GRCI.

Hello, GR Retreat! The phones are constantly ringing to keep our wonderful secretaries busy. When asked for three words to describe her job Mrs. Waud came up with, "Fulfilling, unpredictable, and stupendous."

What's In The Gravy? A good laugh is shared between Mrs. Harmer and Mrs. Cormier as they prepare for the onslaught of hungry teens at lunch hour. These ladies do a great job at filling the many empty stomachs with lots of good food.

hat happens in that little black booth at the back of the caf? We can often find people up there, flipping switches, pushing buttons, at the furthest point from the stage, but they're in complete control of it. Makes you hope they know what they're doing. And then there's the custodial staff who keep our school beautiful by cleaning both inside and out.

Looking in on all this, a person wonders what keeps our school running. What holds it all together? But on closer inspection it becomes clear that it is because of all these people and groups that the school stands at all. They spend hours setting up, practising, and taking down; the stage crew can make big performances like the MIC show come off without a hitch. "The time and devotion this group puts in is incredible. Phil [Young] has been dying a thousand deaths because he felt he was personally responsible for the lost mic," joked Ms. Jackson after locating the microphone for him. "I felt they knew what they were doing... I just gave them [Stage Crew] the CD and they worked it flawlessly!" said Skye Wallace after her superb performance at the GRCIdol competition.

Another hard working group is the Announcement Team, whose voices we all hear every morning as we arrive at school. A nice addition this year was our weatherman who kept us up to date on what Mother Nature had in store for us day by day. And as for the everyday announcements, "They help to keep me up to speed on what's going on," noted Mike Hager.

We also should not forget all the members of our staff who stay under the radar, but also help to keep our school running. Many of us hear of this elusive 'Mr. Teed' but in all honesty how many students actually know him? Not many. "I try to keep a low key. I find the school works better and people are happier if the staff and I simply stay behind the scenes and let the work speak for itself rather than me," mused Mr. Teed.

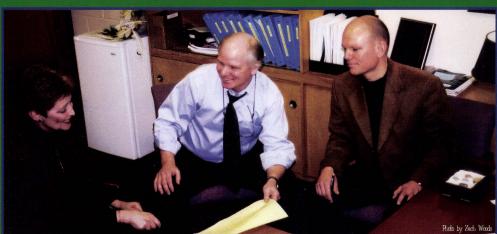

All in all, these groups and people do an excellent job of keeping this piece of machinery well oiled and running smoothly.

BEHIND THE Scenes And Under The Radar

Hurray For Snow! This was the cry heard one Tuesday in January as all staff and students were given the day off. Although the snow day was a great relief for most people involved, it wasn't as much fun for our exceptional custodial staff who had to remove it all.

"I'm Not Playing! I'm Working..." declares Mrs. Curry as she keeps busy, with a magic marker, behind the desk within the counseling office.

A Meeting Of The Minds... 'The powers that be' in our school sit down to a discussion. Many decisions have to be made and more often than not, they are decided by either our two new VP's, Mrs. Carere and Mr. Lomax, or by our dedicated principal, Mr. Teed.

The World Sevened by the Seeing Social Sciences Through the Eyes of Society

It's Sew Time! It's time to show your sewing skills! New sewing techniques are learned in the Fashion Industry class and students get to test their knowledge on the sewing machine. Kristin Nickle displays her sensational skills on the sewing machine. She is working on her zipper-pull hoodie, the first project students work on in the Fashion Industry class. In the next project, students get to choose anything they want to make.

Cause And Effect... There's someone knocking at the door, and it's Kelley Dilkes, who is hammering away at Mr. Teed's office. After studying Martin Luther's 95 Theses in Ms. Dowhaniuk's West and the World history class, students came up with four ideas of their own to improve the school. Noticing the signs and impressed by their ideas, Mr. Teed and Mr. Williamson came to talk to the classes to discuss future plans for Grand River.

Nine Months Pregnant? Although she may appear to be pregnant, Ana Zelaya is wearing a pregnancy simulator, called "The Empathy Belly". In Parenting class, students get the chance to feel the effects that occur during pregnancy. A weight gain of 30 pounds, fetal kicking and stroking movements, shallow breathing, shortness of breath, and increased blood pressure are just some of the symptoms felt while wearing the garment. "The Empathy Belly" is open to anyone, so guys...even you can give it a try!

Puzzled looks and furrowed eyebrows often follow after asking about what the Social Sciences are. It's no big surprise, since the Social Sciences seem to fit in a category all by itself.

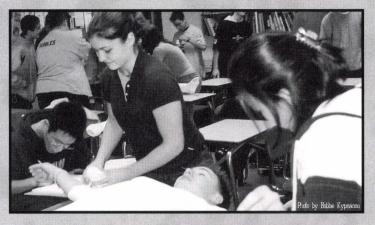

The Social Sciences are anything, but ordinary. In Ancient Egypt, mummification was a long process, taking 40 days to complete. In Mr. Hunsberger's World History: 16th Century class, also known as "Ancient Civ," students participated in a mummy wrapping contest. "It took the whole class," said Nancy Yang. Caution: Whether it's from the past or present, patience is a must to become mummified!

"Learning about Ancient Civilizations is awesome," says Yeng Hang with enthusiasm. Keith Mayer exclaims (in a poetic over-tone), "I say unto thee to take history for it is a blast, to learn from our past!" Let's face it, students are curious about history and want to know what the world was like in the past.

Students emerge out of class, fashion-forward, when taking courses, such as Fashion and The Fashion Industry. Emily Shields explains, "I'm more aware of what people wear, the types of colours and patterns that look good on them." In this class, students completed a unit on patterns and colours and also made py jamas.

I'll Make A Mummy Out Of You!... In Ancient Egypt, the body's organs were removed and put in canopic jars. With all organs intact, Phil Salvian lies on the table, while Jill Simmons and Nancy Yang wrap him in rolls of linen in Mr. Hunsberger's Ancient Civelage

The Social Sciences also include a course called Anthropology, Psychology, and Sociology. With such a long name like that, who really knows what goes on in that class? "We learn about ourselves through personality tests, what goes on in the minds of people with disorders, and also learn about how people around us affect our behaviour," explains Michelle Ma. "It's an interesting course...with a punch!" adds Alyssa Khadan.

As always, travelling is part of the many perks found in taking a Social Sciences class. In Ms. Jackson's World Issues and Travel and Tourism classes, students travelled to New York. The Statue of Liberty, The Empire State Buildings, and Ground Zero were just a few of the many places students visited while in New York.

From travelling to different places to studying different cultures, the Social Sciences reveal many aspects of our society and the world.

Snip, Snip, Snip... Measuring accurately and being precise are important skills to have in any Fashion class. Matt Bowman is doing just that as he cuts the pattern for his sewing project. In this class, students get subscriptions to fashion magazines and study how clothing has changed over the years. In the second project, students can create anything from socks to wedding gowns. The possibilities are endless! Andrew Kolb, who is making a hat for his sewing project says, "My high school life wouldn't be the same without fashion."

It Doesn't Seam To Get Out... Working on his first sewing project in his Fashion Industry class, Aaron Schwab is ripping out a seam from what will become his zipper-pull hoodie. In the Fashion Industry class, students look at the different aspects of the fashion industry, study the clothes of famous designers, and get to design their own clothes. Students also get to go on a field trip to the Toronto Fashion District.

t's 8:15 am and Diane Section scurries down the hall to her Grade 10 science class just in time to hear the early morning announcements. Settling into her seat, she hears the sound of Mr. Teed's voice come over the intercom, "Attention all students, just a reminder that today is Course Selection Day." Panic runs through Di's entire body as she realizes that she's completely forgotten to choose her courses for next year.

Di knows that she really enjoys science, but she's not sure what the differences are between the Senior biology, chemistry, and physics courses.

Di realizes that it's time to bite-the-bullet and during lunch she finds some Senior science students and science teachers to help her understand the uniqueness between the three science courses.

After talking to some Grade 12 biology students, Di discovers that if you take biology you get to study the human body and you get to dissect fetal pigs, eyeballs and brains! Di also learns that in Grade 12 biology you get to study DNA and the Human Genome Project.

Next, Di visits Mrs. Ruby, and asks her why students should choose chemistry over biology and physics. Mrs. Ruby exclaimed that it's, "S'more fun in Chemistry, and learning about gas is a blast!" In Senior chemistry you also get to discover why our bodies are great conductors of electricity, as well as what vitamins bioaccumulate in your body.

Di continues her quest for knowledge and discovers that the highlights of Senior Physics are the unique labs which include the cart and ramp labs, the slinky experiments, and the rubber-stopper centripetal force lab. Other students en joy physics because it's a challenge and helps students understand why things work the way they do in the world.

On her way to math class, Di is stuck trying to decide which science interests her more. Her train of thought is interrupted by the sound of a familiar voice, "Hey Di! What math course are you taking next year?" At that moment the panic resurfaces as Di realizes that she's forgotten to reasearch her math options! Di starts yelling and runs away FAST!

Mmm Cake! Class-mates, Rachel Daub and Daina Anderson enjoy the toppings on their homemade plant cell cake which they baked for their Grade 11 biology class.

2+2=5? Math student, Dijana Radanovic, writes a test for the Senior Math League. Lauren Zintel explained that Math League helps, "enrich your math skills."

Don't Fall In The Water! Searching for living organisms, Karen Richer examines the water with her Grade 10 Science class on their trip to Wrigley Corners. Laura Peacock remarked that the trip was, "fun and [we] learned a lot about natural environments versus created ones."

Especially when it squirted at you, but all-in-all it was a really interesting lab." This year the Grade 12 biology classes also got to dissect a cow's kidney, and a sheep's brain.

Il kinds of things add to making a good school. Grand River has the qualities, especially when it comes to charitable fundraisers and donations.

Students have put a lot of time and effort into making our community a better place to live. Jill Simmons' view is, "Teenage youth needs to give more. So that's what we're doing. It gives teenagers a better image."

Marco Kennema shared, "Since most of our charity work is done in the Grand River area, we see how much of a difference we actually make with local kids and families." An example of this is the Breakfast Club that is held on weekday mornings at a church near by that provides a healthy breakfast for children before school.

Food drives are also very popular around the school. Trick or Treat for F. R. O. G. takes place on Hallowe'en. Students go door to door to collect food for the like Trick or Treat for F. R. O. G. because I help people who aren't as fortunate and it's so much fun! It just feels good." The second annual Student versus Police hockey game helped out the Food Bank as well. To attend the games, students were to bring a can of food or two dollars to the event. With all the fans of our boys', girls', and teachers' hockey teams how could it not be a success? Derek Douglas said, "It was really cool playing with former OHL and NHL players and there has never been a bigger fan turn-out, which was good for the Food Bank." Students brought 500 pounds of canned food that filled a police cruiser.

An event that is very interesting is the Blood Donor Clinic, held in November and March. It's not the most pleasant thing to see but it's for a worthy cause. Michelle Gardiner commented, "I'm willing to go through ten minutes of a little pain and discomfort to save another person's life." Many students eagerly roll up their sleeves to give blood.

Grand River also helped raise money for the Cancer Society, Parkinson's disease, Juvenile Diabetes, The Red Cross, and Holidays are for Helping. Grand River really knows how to make a difference in our community.

What In The World... The costume Mr. Gouveia's homeroom class chose for him does not need a description; it shouts out loud to anyone who sees it. What ever happened to the traditional Hallowe'en costumes?

Creating New Traditions... In addition to the good old pumpkin carving, a new sport was developed in the Grand River Arena, Pumpkin Curling! Mailou Vang and Sonya Hones were among the first to try this excellent new sport during their gym class!

t Grand River, you come to expect certain things at Hallowe'en time such as Student and Teacher Dress Up, pumpkin carving, and Hallowe'en treats. This year, due to the P.D. Day being on October 31st, there was a lack of participation. Luckily, it was quantity lost, not quality! The parade consisted of five brave teachers; Mr. Nicholls, Mr. Julian, Mr. Gouveia, Mr. Hunsberger, and Mr Leung, Mr. Nicholls won the dance tickets for his class with his creative Jesus costume. "I knew Mr. Nicholls was guaranteed to win. Who beats Jesus?" questioned Cari Ferguson.

Many Students commented on the lack of participation. "Come on guys! I was looking forward to way more costumes than this!"

Heather Boyd complained while glancing at the stage of five teachers. "There's like no one dressed up. We felt out of place but it was fun anyways," commented Lavonne Allen.

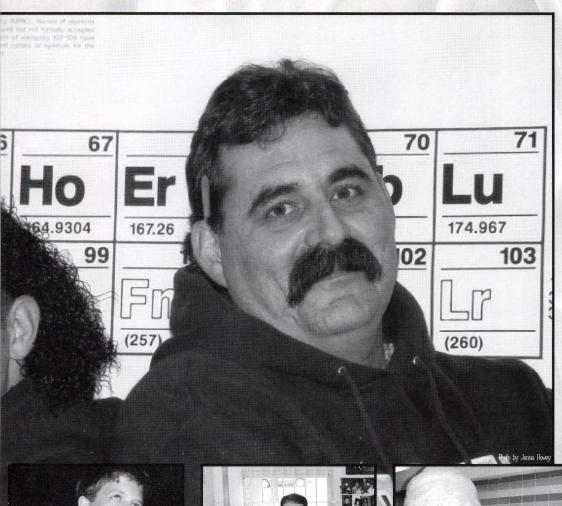

What else goes with October and Hallowe'en fun? Oktoberfest! Tis the season for sauerkraut eating and Polka Dancing. What's so bad about sauerkraut eating? Nothing, unless it is part of an eating contest where only the hungry survive. "I think it's awesome, a truly manly sport," expressed Nick Free with enthusiasm. To add to the sauerkraut eating contest there was also a rootbeer chug. "I got sick in Grade Nine, I'm pretty sure I will this year too," stated Ben Lagonia moments before the contest begun. Sources say he was right.

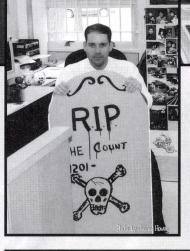

If you are not one of the strong stomached students, you may have tried Polka dancing instead. 'I polka because it makes me feel happy inside," Alix Hall informed between songs. The competitive nature of the polka dancing contest picked up when a few of the contestants pretended to be monitors. "Sorry guys, you're out," Laura Vandepas stated firmly, then proceeded to laugh when the couple suddenly stopped and made their way out of the dancing area. Overall, the dancing was just a fun workout for everyone

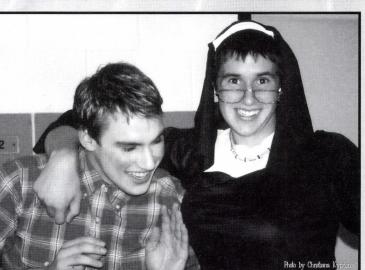

Laurie Cadman

October Time Agenson To Celebrate

Reunited In The Science Room... No, you are not seeing double. Andrew Kolb arrived at school to celebrate Hallowe'en dressed up as Mr. Gragor, a science teacher. Once Mr. Gragor discovered this costume, he insisted on a photo to remember it by. Although there is no contest for students dressing up many do anyways!

Only The Strong Survive... Yes, that sauerkraut is on its way down. Poor Brendan Arnott struggles to eat as much as his stomach will allow in the annual Sauerkraut Eating Contest. Why people enter this contest is a mystery but it is always entertaining to watch.

Getting Involved... The office staff seems to really get into the spirit of things. Mr. Williamson shows off one of the many decorations found throughout student activities and the cafe. The main office was decorated in Hawaiian style.

Better Safe Than Sorry... Spencer Clausing wears his condom costume proudly. At his side Ashley Robinson escorts him dressed in random clothes and accessories she found at home. A bit out of the ordinary but with a good message behind it.

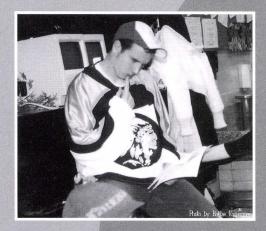

I'm Too Sexy For My Dirndl... Mr. Oktoberfest contestant Ben Lagonia answers one of the many questions he was asked throughout the competition. This was a new but interesting activity.

And The Winner Is... The stage was graced with the presence of Mr. Nicholls. Congratulations to his homeroom. Their creative thinking and participation was the trick to being awarded a full set of tickets to the Hallowe'en dance!

Putting On Their Dancing Shoes... Marco Kennema grabs Paul Dziedziejko at the Hallowe'en dance for a quick pose before the next song. Practise, Practise, Practise... During dress rehearsal Meaghan Reid and Adam Pfeffer skim through their lines for the Remembrance Day Assembly. "You can never rehearse too long or too hard!" Mrs. Carlson said jokingly. In the background, Laura Vandepas tried to act convincingly as a soldier in the Second World War. "It's pretty hard to play a male character in front of your fellow students, when you've been a woman all your life," Laura admitted.

Hmmm... Sometimes you have to take a break to look back on your work, as demonstrated by Mark Burjoski. "Writing a whole play by yourself can be stressful," declared Jacqui McLaughlin. Mrs. Carlson's Grade Eleven drama class just finished presenting their dramatic scenes about the Second World War.

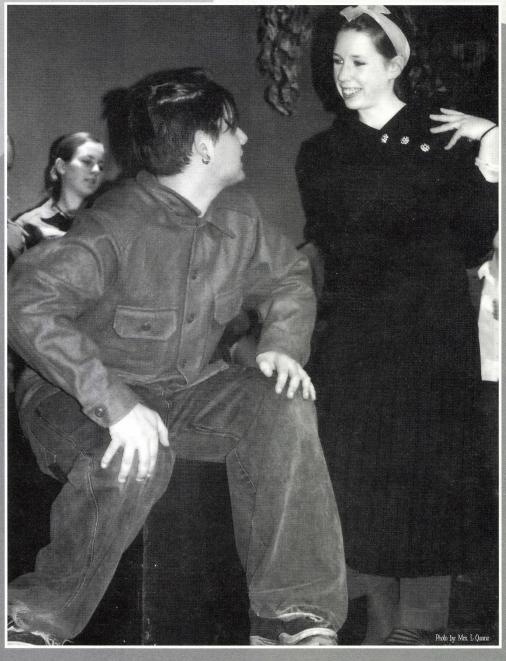

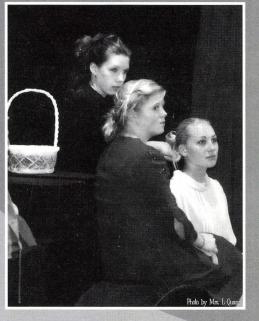

Checking It Out... Maja Petrovic and Sarah Chonko attempt to memorize their lines for their scenes during drama class. These scenes were due in three classes. "I love drama!" marvelled Sarah. "It's the memorizing lines part that I don't like."

Shhhhh... It's a beautiful morning on the set of the Remembrance Day Assembly as Meaghan Reid, Natalie Herzing and Melinda Koch listen to their fellow cast mates read from the script. When interviewed most of the actors acknowledged that practise certainly makes perfect.

ATTEEENTION! The army sergeant performed by Tim Vujicic addresses his soldiers played by Matt Barnhardt and Adam Pfeffer. Tim mentioned that playing the sergeant made him feel in control.

In The Spot Light Rens take On the Stage

rs. Carlson's Grade Twelve drama class rehearsed for many weeks to perfect their performance for the Remembrance Day Assembly. "It took a lot of time, commitment and effort," remarked Amie Debrone, "but it was worth all the early morning rehearsals."

One of the highlights of the assembly occurred when Jennie O'Toole's character, Frog, stage-fought with Tim Vujicic. The play-fight received great response from the crowd. Jennie personally had to have a lot of side coaching to refine her character's Frenchaccent. "Mrs. Carlson is incredibly skilled and intelligent when it comes to these kinds of things," happily commented Jennie.

Every year Mrs. Carlson takes a great amount of time out of her own life to direct and mold her students into perfect actors in preparation for the Remembrance Day Assembly. "We do not entertain as much as we imitate the lives of the soldiers who fought in the war," related Mrs. Carlson.

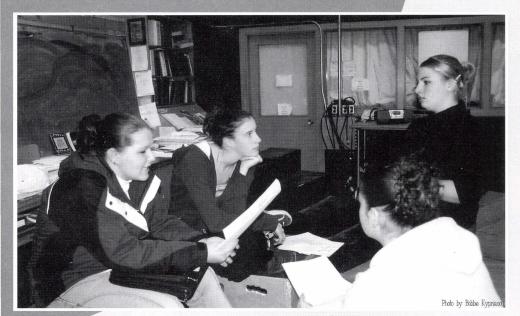

When the audience was asked how they thought the assembly went, it got a terriffic response. "I really liked the assembly," Dan Cook claimed. "The tribute to our Veterans was done in a very dignified and respectful fashion." It was obvious that the Remembrance Day Assembly was a sweet success. To top off the extraordinary production, Amie Debrone finished with an original song which she collaborated with Rachelle Olsen. "I was almost brought to tears," responded Ana Velimirovic. "It gave me goosebumps," added Sascha Garrity.

If asked, a lot of people would admit that drama is one of the best courses that Grand River has to offer. "Drama is so much fun. It's a class where you can just relax, loosen up and be yourself," acknowledged Jamie Russell. Drama not only gives you the opportunity to experience new things, it also gets students involved. Shows such as the Sears Drama Festival allow students to perform in front of seasoned judges.

Grand River applauds its Grade Twelve drama students for putting on an outstanding performance every November Eleventh, and there are always students looking forward to producing the assembly. This is a tradition that will always be respected and remembered time and time again.

Bobbie Kyprianou

Oh, Canada! This is a time when Canadians are proud of their heritage. Alanna Julian, Joanna Vasilescu and Garrett Suska practise their sign language at the Remembrance Day Assembly dress rehearsal. The Sign Language Club meets every Wednesday at lunch. Members of the club learn how to sign differnt words, sentences, and songs.

Concentration Is The Key... It's completely silent when our fellow Rens, Meaghan Reid, Ashley Robinson and Jennie O'Toole, take on the stage at Grand River's annual Remembrance Day Assembly. "The War Show is a delightful balance of simple characters who never intended to be heroes, but extraordinary circumstances compelled them to be," Mrs. Carlson explained to her class.

Doing An Italian Run... "I Got Caught" is the name of the play that Sascha Garrity and her fellow group members Felicia Hughes, Nicole Langford and Candice Bremmers, wrote for their Remembrance Day assignment that is traditionally given out each year. It's very important that we continue to remember the Veterans of World War Two; they sacrificed their lives to save ours and gave us the freedom to do and say as we please.

The Niner Advantage

New Beginnings and More Choices...

Nice Snot...I Mean Shot... Have you ever tried to shoot a Cheerio from your nostril? It's a first for many, like Niners Ivan Ashabi and Josh Fricke. In Snot Shot, students at Niner Night competed against each other to see how far their Cheerios went. Organizing this funfilled event was Melinda Koch, Nick Andress, and Jason Miller.

What Goes Down, Must Come Up! Grade Nine Students' stomachs were put to the test at Niner Night. Looking a little nauseous, Mitch Klein tries to swallow down his drink.

ou know the feeling when you wake up on the first day of school: butterflies swirl around in your stomach. These feelings of nervousness are especially intensified if you are in Grade Nine.

Believe it or not, being transplanted to high school can be a good thing. Many seniors are jealous of the fact that Grade Nines get "special treatment." On the first day of school, Niners are treated to a barbecue where they can hang out and eat free food. The next special activity for Niners happens on Niner Night, where "you get to see all your friends and meet new people," stated Christine Herner. The only thing Grade Nines didn't like about Niner

Row, Row, Row Your Boat... Working hard to reach the finish line, students Kurtis Himmel-Hobson, Kou Lor, and other Grade Nines were put on trollies with only toilet plungers to "paddle" their way down the hall. At Niner Night, students were surveyed. When asked what they would do if they could rule the school, Kurtis replied, "Cancel classes!" while June Thao confirmed, "Help the others to rule the school."

Night was that there was, "no air conditioning," commented Tara Benn. It was indeed a hot night with all the physical activities. In the Thirty Legged Race, students' legs were tied together and they had to race to the finish line. When asked what activity she liked best, Zoe Brown stated, "Gladiator." Other fun-filled activities this year were Licorice Kiss, Snot Shot, and Tic Tac

"It's just fun [to be a Niner]," replied Ivan Ashabi. That's one of the things all Niners should remember. They should have fun while they continue to experience new things and seek new opportunities.

ROUND Two: The Tens Are Ready to Get Back in the Ring

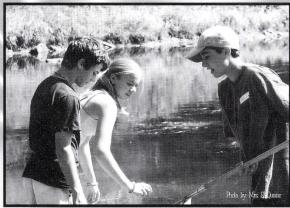

inally they've made it past the year of being transplanted, and they are ready to put down roots. That first year was full of changes that they adjusted to, but their second year is the year for them to enjoy themselves and put in dedication and hard work as always.

Stephen Singh said, "[Grade Ten is] harder. There's more work to do, but it's also more fun." Paul Bruder confirmed. "I like English, computers, and gym, but math and science are much harder."

Aside from the extra work, there are other occurrences that go on in the school that affect the Grade Tens. "There are still people who can push us around, but we're still striving for the top," voiced Nick Rollins.

Now that they're not the lowest in the food chain, they're starting to notice how their first year is the year to show respect to everyone and now they have a chance to get respected themselves. Even though Grade Ten seems to be harder than previous years, there's still plenty of time for students to have fun and goof around. "My friend, Tom Good never lets you do your work, and jabs you in the side," exclaimed Brandon Eccles.

Goin' Fishing!On their field trip to Wrigley Corners, Colin Riley, Kristen Storer, and Mike Narimalla fished for little critters during science class.

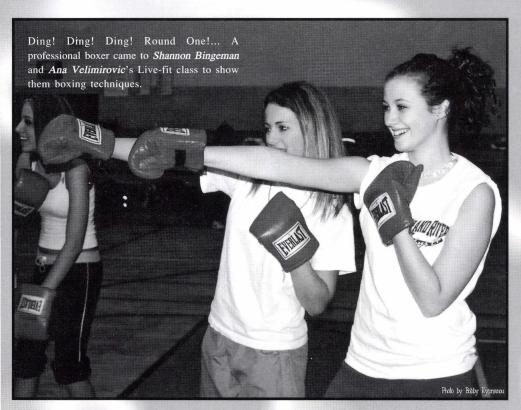

In Grade Ten the year runs smoother. You are more aware of what is happening and you know what is going to happen later on in the year. Since you have an idea of what goes on at GRCI you can focus on other changes, such as getting your Beginner's Licence. "Getting my G1 is important to me. When I can drive, I don't have to ask my parents and I can go where I want," Ian Hurst expressed.

Even though they're having fun and working hard, Grade Tens are still anticipating the summer, "I look forward to the summer when I can bike," explained Ed Strelau.

All you Grade Tens have to do now is keep working hard, exploring the compelling world of Grand River Collegiate and sooner than you know, you will be riding your bike or driving down to the beach.

See Kyle Run... Congratulations to Kyle Dekker who topped his incredibly hot Cross Country year by going to OFSAA where he placed twentieth overall. He achieved this goal by placing first in WCSSAA and second in CWOSSA earlier in the year. He was only one of the many Grand River students who made us proud.

hey are two teams that kick off the school year. They set the bar for the coming season in sports. You hear them before you see them, the loud cheering, the banging of sticks on the ground, the crack of balls making contact and...the sound of running?

Grand River's Cross-Country and Field Hockey Teams were excellent this year. The Field Hockey Team quickly rose to the challenge of a rebuilding year, and some veterans even felt the abundance of new faces made for a better crew. Coming back with a spot as co-captain, Brittany Firmi en joyed the season and dreads leaving the game behind." When it comes time to graduate, it'll be a huge adjustment, so when it's gone, a little part of me will be gone too." Their love for the sport definitely showed, resulting in a sixth place in the county. So how do the team's incredibly helpful coaches feel about the talent this year? Ms. Oswald certainly felt the team deserved praise. "Overall, the team worked really hard. We achieved all of the expectations - and then

There was another team deserving full recognition for its tremendous effort this season. Dozens of students 'pounded the pavement' for this year's Cross-Country Team. They impressed schools with their determination during various meets around the city. Grand River was well represented at both WCSSAA and CWOSSA, with incredible standings achieved by individuals. Congratulations also goes out to members of the Junior Boys' team who were WCSSAA champions, placed second in CWOSSA and had members place high at the prestigious OFSAA. The students had fun improving their times and strengthening their friendships this season. As for the runners' top notch strategies, Dave Casey had no problem sharing his secret to success, explaining "I came last every time because I was enjoying the scenery."

Sabrina Wirz described the team as one that was, "completely serious about practice, but still had so much fun."

Get Me Outta Here! Players, Travis Coyle and George Vrentzos clear the way from the cross-fire of a major hit. Unfortunately, one unknown Renegade player is stuck in the bottom of the pile up!

n the night of October 16th, Grand River fans packed the stands at Centennial Stadium to cheer for their Ren men in one of the hottest games of the season, the Showdown in K-Town. The Showdown in K-Town has been a traditional fans' game for years because neighbouring rivals, Grand River and Eastwood come head-to-head in an intense grid-iron challenge.

This testosterone-charged event raised temperatures on and off the field. The Renegade players were pumped and dominating Eastwood, while Eastwood and Grand River fans threw eggs in the stands. Emily DeWitt admitted she was, "excited to watch some good football but the fans' rivalry got out of hand." Even with all the distractions in the stands, the Renegades still managed to win their way to the top, beating Eastwood 34-7.

So what makes these athletes play so well? Could it be their excellent guidance?

Coaches Medensky, Payne, Zinger, and Zender were amazing this season. "[We] had the best coaches in the league. Coach Zender had a real passion for the team and Coach Zinger's previous experience taught [us] so much," Mike Guil mentioned.

It could also be that these athletes had excellent team spirit. The football players exhibited strong team unity and followed many traditions. Every morning before a game, the boys made their way to McDonalds. When George Vrentzos was asked how this breakfast affected the players he answered, "It's a great way to bring the team closer together. We start the day off together and finish it by [hopefully] playing well."

What other traditions do these athletes follow? Every year the team has a pot-luck dinner where the players and coaches eat and watch the movie, Remember the Titans. Brian Konig commented that it was a "fun night to hang out with all the football guys." The team also had an end of season feast at the Edelweiss Restaurant where they enjoyed pasta and were presented with team awards.

The boys made their way to the quarter-finals against Galt. Derek Douglas reported that the players, "had a bye the week before the quarter-finals, and used that time to prepare, study plays, and practise really hard." The boys ended up losing, 21-7, but that didn't bring them down. "We played the best game of the year. Everyone was proud of the outcome and our performance even though we lost," remarked Mike Linka. Now that's team spirit!

t's no surprise that our Boys' Volleyball team had yet another exceptional season. Their effort and dedication took them far; the boys practised three times a week and played on Tuesdays and Thursdays. Both teams' performances were great on the court bringing many supporting fans.

The Senior Boys started the season off with a bang by winning the York Tournament, the largest tournament in the province. "Volleyball is a lot of fun, especially with all the guys on the team," commented Mike Richer. The team received their fair share of injuries throughout the season; however, that did not stop the players from doing well or having fun. Paul Richer, the team captain, stood on the side lines for part of the season because of a sprained ankle, "We always support each other no matter who is on the court. We are always postitive," he said. Every member had playing time and a chance to show other schools what Renegades are made of. Joe Woodhouse believed the team did well, "We have a really good team. We've accomplished so much with all the injuries we've had to face." The boys went to WCSSAA and advanced to CWOSSA. Their battles on the court made Grand River proud.

There were no injuries for the Junior Boys' team. These young men won WCSSAA and placed second in CWOSSA! Chris Statz said positively, "If there were OFSAA for Junior Boys, we'd be going!" There's no doubt about that.

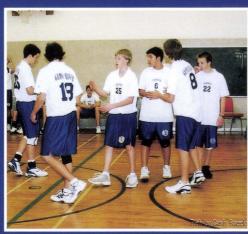

These guys were on fire. So how did they do it? "We had the best serve-reception and defenders in the league. They played really well together," reflected Mr. Hunsberger, the proud coach. The Junior Boys were known for the great chemistry that they had. As long as they were together, they were unbeatable and unstoppable.

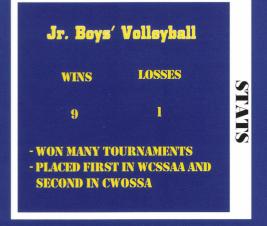

With many veterans moving on to other schools some of the juniors will be leaving their young team to play for the big boys. But don't worry, with the way the Grade Nines played, it's evident that they have the potential to rule the court once again on the junior team. So let the nets go up once more and let's watch some intense volleyball from our talented men.

Getting Ready... Prepared to snatch the ball from the opposing team player, Alyssa Lagonia defends her turf. The girls practised hard as they proved by winning their game against the opposing team 48-9. They played a good season where they finished ninth in league play.

ith the arrival of another school year, our fellow Lady Rens prepared for an exciting basketball season. Once again, both Junior and Senior Basketball Teams managed to shine through with great accomplishments.

This season was one of growth for both teams. It consisted of strong returning players and talented first year players. This enabled our junior team to get off to a good start.

The essence of this game is all about team effort. "We put up a good fight," stated Maddie Soye. "We had such a great team with so much potential," agreed Kerry Allerton.

Janelle Scheifele proudly claimed that one of the highlights of the season was "in the CWOSSA qualifier when we had our huge comeback and double overtime." "The Senior Girls" Basketball Team was a wonderful group of girls to coach. They were dedicated and always gave 100 percent. I was sorry to see the season end," replied Coach Milks.

Despite the team's main complaint concerning their height, the girls still had strong chemistry on the floor and all managed to help each other on defence. "This year we didn't make it as far as I would've hoped, but we still did well," Aman Ahluwalia acknowledged. The girls finished fifth with a record of 8 wins and 5 losses but lost in their CWOSSA qualifier to Brantford.

Huddle Up Ladies... The Senior Girls came together for a quick time-out during their game as Coach Milks gave them the latest 411. Meagan Slack, Helena Krolak, Maddie Soye, Aman Ahluwalia, Jessica Rachfalowski, and Jill Simmons eagerly waited to get back on the court to continue playing.

A team is not all about wearing the same uniforms or even singing the same cheers; it's about the contributions made by each team member.

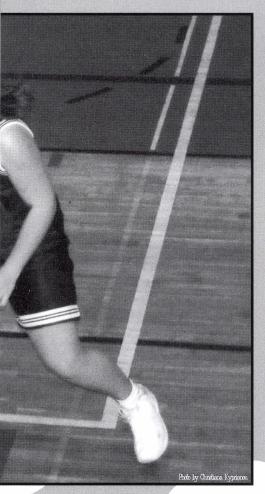

The Junior Girls' Team played well and worked hard at every practice to improve their talents. They fought hard for a title but unfortunately didn't make it that far. Despite the fact > both teams didn't make it to CWOSSA, the players obtained skills from the other team members. They learned the true essence of team effort, a key component in every sport including basketball. With a strong foundation of young players, the best is yet to come in next year's season.

> Both Junior and Senior Teams showed power, determination and attitude on the court. This definitely reflected their excellent league play.

They learned to bond and build trust on and off the court. These girls managed to prove the depth of their talents and the strength of their futures.

he lights dim and all goes quiet. All eyes are at the front of the room, where a group of students watch the conductor anxiously. With instruments raised, they wait patiently for the cue to begin, then the lone sound of a flute lingers in the air.

This isn't a scene from Mr. Holland's Opus, but a typical Music Night at Grand River. Whether it be classical, marches, pop, polka or jazz music, the bands of the school sure know how to give their audiences a good time. Such results would not have been possible without the time, dedication, and devotion of all the bandmates and conductors. "This school year has been a most rewarding one as the students are really talented, motivated, and dedicated to their ensembles," complimented Mrs. Baer, leader of the Oktoberfest, Honour, and Senior Jazz bands. "We have been able to learn more music and participate in music festivals such as Musicfest and Kiwanis. I am confident we'll represent our school very well," she later added. These praises are well deserved, especially when you factor in the tremendous loss the music program suffered with last year's double cohort.

So what exactly are these bands and how do you get involved with them? For starters, the bands are divided up into sections: Junior and Senior. That way students of the same ages and level of expertise are able to play together. Concert Band is a group of Grade Nines and Tens who meet weekly to practise new arrangements. This band is one of the most important to the music department because this is often a music student's first time in an ensemble or even picking up an instrument! If you're in the lower grades and looking for a more relaxed style of music then why not join Junior Jazz Band and learn the basics and fundamentals of jazz from senior student Steph Schmidt? "The junior ensembles of the music department are awesome and they lead you on to bigger and better things at the school," offered Scott Dobbin.

If polka music is more your style, Oktoberfest Band starts up early in the school year and works diligently to spread Oktoberfest cheer to feeder schools across the county. Band member Bobby Pepall had only good things to say about the Oktoberfest Band quoting, "I'm so glad that my classmates got me to sign up and I'm sure that Uncle Hans appreciated the hard work we put into our performances."

If you're getting older and still want to stay on with the music program then Honour Band is the way to go. Made up of predominantly senior students, they have always represented Grand River well at various music festivals. Last but not least is the Senior Jazz band with the most relaxed feel. Aspiring trumpeter Nicolai Koegler uses this time to show his peers his incredible knowledge of this particular type of music. "I'm constantly looking for ways that I can teach people to make the connection between what's on the page and what they're hearing on the recordings... how attention to minor details can set the mood." And he's not making this stuff up. Nicolai is currently showcasing his talents with the Big Band in "Cosmic Ray & The Escape Pods", which is performing at the Waterloo Stage Theatre.

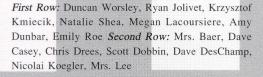

Here at Grand River we have some incredible talents practising in the Music Room, so Boston Pops watch out! You've got some heavy competition.

ocated at the far end of the school, the tech hall often goes unnoticed. But after taking a deeper look you can see that it is an essential aspect of Grand River

The mechanically inclined students of our school can usually be found in the auto room with Mr. Shouldice. The students enjoy getting their hands dirty while fixing engines, changing oil, rotating tires and much more.

Down the hall in communication technology, students are busy all year round. Mike Kroutilen joys Comm Tech because he can, "pick his favourite part, and focus in on it." You may see them running around for their year end broadcast where they reflect on the year.

Across the hall in Mr. Berube's woodworking class, students have a chance to build their futures_as well as their china cabinets. Students can custom design their own projects. "You can make whatever you want, although I wouldn't recommend a toothpick," joked Aaron Schwab.

In Electronics and Robotics our students learn a shocking amount about the way things work. During the second half of the course they put their knowledge into action while making a robot of their very own. While in programming students learn the workings of computers, and design their very own programs. Krzysztof

Kmiecik remarked, "I took programming because it's what I wanted to get into."

Mr. Ross has his students sparking the interest of the school in machine shop. His students create things from hammers to bike frames, while down the hall the students in drafting are designing blueprints for houses. Nicolai Koegler says, "Mr. Holowchuck doesn't take any BS. He makes me get down to business. I'm lovin' it."

So as you can see the tech students here at Grand River are busy at work. Now they just need to install a women's washroom in the tech hall.

The

TECH HALL EXPOSEDS

. What's making all of that racket?

Prob by Jeroe Hovey

Sit Back And Relax... With nothing to do but wait, Jeremy Camplin watches his wood through the planer. While making his table he had to slide each piece through to put it to its proper thickness.

Cut And Paste... With a face glowing with concentration Carolyn Gambling places each piece resembling a room onto her page in her drafting class.

Hook It Up... Students Kemar Lawrence, Tom Tabaei, and Nino Petrovic are fumbling around with cables in preparation for the television broadcast. Practice makes perfect so these students set-up over and over.

Shock Me, Shock Me, Shock Me... Max Pottier and Brendan Arnott are learning to build circuits. Brendan took Electronics because, "it is most enjoyable. You actually get to put your hands in and make something."

TECH

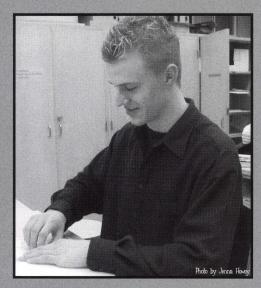

Lights, Camera, Action? In an effort to gain experience with the equipment, Comm Tech students filmed many of the school's activities. Melissa Stephens prepares one of the many video cameras needed for filming. Videography is one of the many aspects of Communication Technology.

Tools Of Success... Taking advantage of the many woodworking tools we have at Grand River, Brandon Schmidt uses the router to spice up his project. Design is just as important as functionability.

The Straight Edge... Rulers, pencils and erasers are all the tools the drafting students need. Nicolai Koegler shows us the steps to designing our very own house. Soon this guy might be designing your house too.

Smooth Moves... A very tedious and time guzzling process of cabinet making is sanding. Trevor Hummel took all of the steps to ensure that the shelf he built was free from scratches, dents, and pencil lines. Some students admitted that half of the time they spent on their project consisted of sanding. In the end the time spent sanding pays off with beautiful projects.

As The Sparks Shoot... You can clearly see the importance of wearing safety goggles. Nathan Lyons works on his table top where the sparks were literally flying as he smoothed down the side of his project. Working independently in the background you see Bryan Smith as well.

Man I Feel Like A Woman... Equipped with their coveralls and safety goggles these two girls are getting right into the action. Grace Thao and Payia Moua are just as involved as the guys when it comes to their Auto Class.

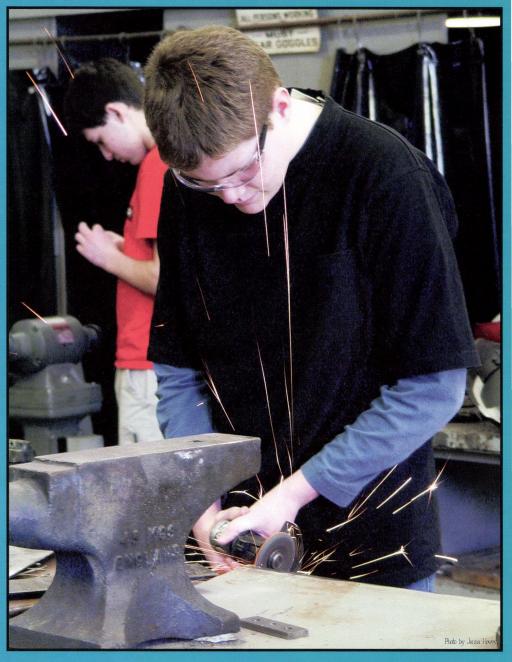

Tools For The Future... Working hard towards finishing his pencil sharpener Spencer Clausing bores his taper carefully. If you are curious as to what that means you should consider construction technology for next year!

Work In Progress... Sawing away at his latest project Nick Andress is caught in motion, working hard in the machine shop. Of course he has followed all necessary safety procedures.

The Finishing Touch... Tending to the hub cap, Brandon Charbonneau continues to work on the car in the auto classroom.

Matt Boscariol and Shannon Bingeman help to carry the tree back for the Christmas assembly.

Operation Christmas Child is wrapped up with the help of Erin Brisson and Tiffany Parker.

Practising Off The Field... Soccer enthusiasts, Aram Doski, Alex Matsias, Perry Kotsopoulos and Chris Jankowsky, play a quick game of foosball in the caf. Ever since the table was added to our school, it has been a hit with the students. It's a fun way to get rid of that extra stress from a hard day in class or to work on your soccer skills indoors.

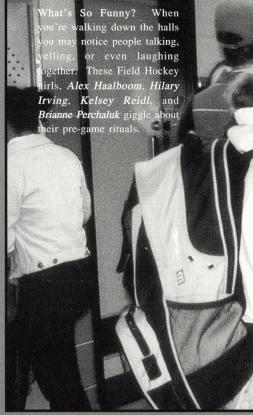

He Shoots, He Scores! Cheering on their fellow Rens, Bojana Josipovic and Tahnee Jamieson attempt to keep warm at the hockey game. The boys won their way to CWOSSA where they lost in finals.

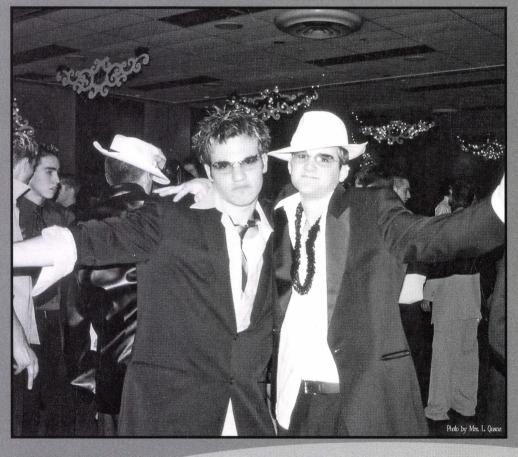

Get Jiggy Wit' It... Lunch time activities have always been a major hit in the caf. Alanna Julian and Spencer Miller dance around along with many others at the polka dancing competition.

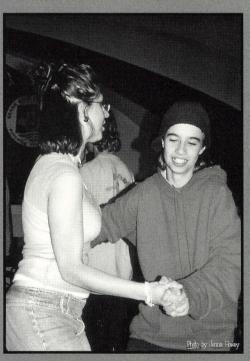

Straight Out Of GQ... Stylin' at Semi-Formal, Aaron Desilva, and Jake Kipfer take a moment to show us what they've got. This is always a popular school event because you get to dress up and have an enjoyable night away from school work.

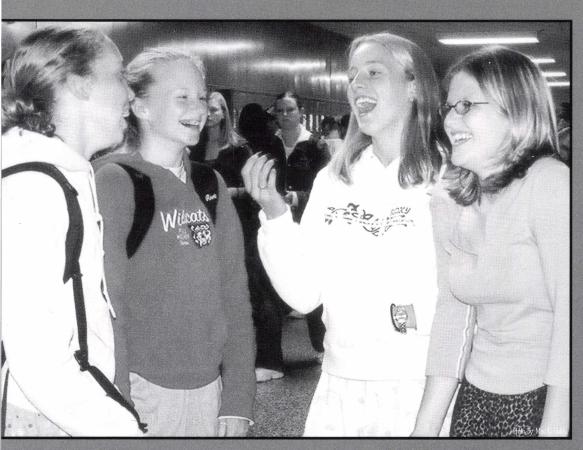

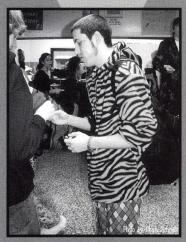

Time Well Wasted Hangin' Around

Surfing The Net... Friends, Thomas Schertzer and Jeff Beitz work on an assignment during class.

What's He Wearing? On Pancake Day, Drew Countryman talks to Andrew Kolb who is sporting a hoody that he made himself in fashion class. If students wore their pyjamas on Pancake Day, they got a discount on their pancakes. Many students took advantage of this special offer.

I Feel Good... I Knew That I Would... Dancing at the 'Island Party' during lunch hour, Garrett Suska and Stefan Ulman work it for the crowd.

Pickin' Up The Ladies... Sporting his pyjamas and his lunch box, Justin Kozik is one of many who takes the advantage of Pyjama/Pancake Tuesday. Many students enjoy this special offer and the added time saved in the morning.

Adding A New Look To Deca, Deca, Deca... During the trip to Toronto, Lauren Zintel and Jim Barlen decide to get ready by applying make-up on one another.

TIMBER! On an unseasonally warm December morning, Mr. Williamson breaks a sweat while chopping down an evergreen. The tree was carried back to the caf and decorated to add a little Christmas spirit. The tree cutting expedition has been one of our many long time traditions that everyone can enjoy. Student Executive members Shannon Bingeman and Matt Boscariol helped carry the tree back to school.

Mmm Cookies... During the second half of lunch Alyssa Coppolino, Kayla Dickinson and Beth Payette hurry down to the tuck shop to buy delicious Christmas cookies from Aman Ahluwalia and Maddie Soye. These treats were sold to help raise money for Student Activities. Nancy Yang commented that, "the do-it-yourself Christmas cookies were stupendous!"

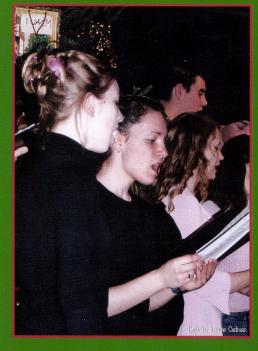

Say Cheese! Grade Tens Natasa Marin, Ana Velimirovic and Donna Kalenic have a great time at the Semi-Formal, sipping their drinks, dancing and chatting with friends. The girls indicated that, "the night was unforgettable."

Jingle Bells, Jingle Bells, Jingle All The Way... Listen to the sounds of sweet music made by Maddie Colbeck, Amy Dunbar, Skye Wallace and Mike Fry. Many students claim that joining the choir is a great way to get involved in school.

Mee, Mee, Mee, Meee... Talented musician Nick Bowers gives a wonderful performance on the piano at the annual Senior Christmas Tea. He dazzled the school with his catchy version of "Gone" by N'SYNC. Nick also ranked in second place in GRCIdol hristmas is the most wonderful time of the year! Or is it? Eleni Tsimpragos described it as, "the most agonizing time in a student's life." The stress is probably because most students are busy with assignments due before Christmas break.

When all work is complete, everyone can join in the winter fun and participate in great events, Some activities included: Semi-Formal, the Senior Christmas Tea and the Swiss Chalet lunch.

One of these fun-filled events was the Holiday Assembly. This event brought lots of cheer and excitement. During the assembly, Santa Claus came to visit and handed out yummy Christmas treats. The day ended when teachers arrived to serve all attending students candycane ice cream. Mr. Payne added that "the ice cream added to the excitement of the holidays."

The Semi-Formal was definitely an event that students got excited about. Girls made hair appointments and got their nails done. Boys bought corsages and tied their ties. When the night finally arrived everyone looked absolutely stunning! "It was a fun event before Christmas and it was great seeing everyone dressed up!" exclaimed Amy Harrison.

The Senior Christmas Tea was loaded with dazzling dance numbers, catchy Christmas tunes and musical renditions. Performers included Mr. Gouveia, Nick Bowers, Alanna Julian and Michelle Meier. Katie Woodhouse commented that, "the show was sensational!"

Overall, staff and students agree that Christmas is definitely the most wonderful time of the year!

Bobbie Kyprianou

Some Tea With Your Crumpets? During the Christmas Tea Christina Toffolo generously offers some tea and sweet desserts to the guests. Every year students are welcome to volunteer their assistance to the Christmas Tea celebration. This is a great way to contribute to their community service hours.

Santa? Having a merry old time, Hailey Knechtel smiles for the camera on Santa Claus' (wink, wink, Mr. Hunsberger's) lap at the Senior Christmas Tea. Laurie Cadman admitted that, "even though it was my first time going I had a phenomenal experience."

Graceful As A Swan... Moving with poise in the spotlight, Lauren Zintel captures everyone's attention as she dances beautifully across the stage. Lauren astonished and entertained the respected Seniors and their companions at the Tea. She was also a member of the dance team.

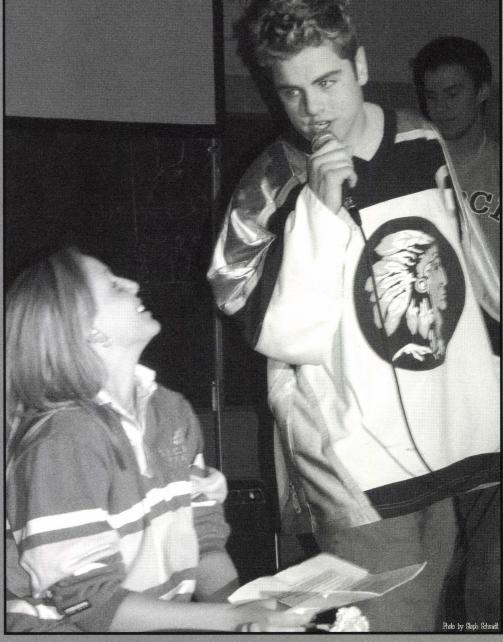

Getting Into The Christmas Spirit... Artistically decorating his homeroom door, Matt Boscariol hurries to quickly complete the finishing touches before the door is critically judged by Student Exec. The winners of the contest were awarded with a pizza party, so all homerooms were anxious to win.

"I Want To Co-Host With You!" In one of the most memorable pep assemblies ever, Derek Douglas sings to his co-host, and girlfriend, Jen Webb. Derek was accompanied by Paul Dziedziejko on guitar. Even though this couple has been together for two years, they still have sappy moments. "It was so cute when he sang to her. I cried!" exclaimed Tammy Jacobi.

Is It Love? At lunch during Valentine's Day week, Katie Gosse participated in the dating game, "Is It Love?" with her ex-boyfriend, Brendan Arnott. The other contestants were Drew Countryman and Aman Ahluwalia, and, winners, Mike Jefkins and Kendra Barrick.

L, Is For The Way You Look At Me... Embracing each other at Semi-Formal, couple, Kendra Barrick and Mike Jefkins enjoy the fun-filled sociable event. Semi-Formal is very popular, and always has a large turn-out.

Does Anybody Want Some Cool Whip? Getting ready to squirt something, (or somebody) with Cool Whip, Jim Barlen helps serve and decorate pancakes on Pancake Tuesday. Did you know that the reason we celebrate Pancake Tuesday is because it's the last fatty meal some people can eat before Lent begins? Lent goes from the end of February until the beginning of Easter.

Pucker' Up Baby! Gimme A Kiss! This may appear to be a very cute couple but in fact, Shannon Bingeman and Mike Richer are just friends. This goes to show that you can be close with someone from the opposite sex without going out. Emily de Witt explains how, "it's nice to just hang out with your close guy friends because they're more laid back than the girls are sometimes," o you remember Nanos, the digital baby that actually needed to be fed and have its diaper changed? Almost everyone owned a digital creature making it a quick trend. The newest hot piece of technology that you see attached to people's ears, no matter where you go, is the cell phone! The cell phone doesn't look like it is going to disappear anytime soon, even with all the new communication technology developing.

Cell phones have call display, call waiting, voice mail, and voice activation. They have many perks like text messaging, internet service, games, ringtones you can download, and phones that can even take pictures!

Although cell phones are very popular with students attending Grand, some students would rather do without one. Cari Ferguson feels no need for a cell phone. "People depend on them too much." Aaron Schwab explained, "When I go out, it's to avoid the phone." Many people still find cellulars very convenient. Jordin Thrift commented, "I think they're good for emergencies, but I'm still not going to go buy one"

"Everyone carries cell phones now. It's a safety cushion for parents," reflected Mr. Teed. There is no school policy that bans the phones from school, but there are guidelines. The phones should be turned off while in the school, they should not interrupt education, and may not be seen. However, they can be easily accessible for emergencies

Fifty-five percent of students surveyed have cell phones, half of them are on plans and the other half use the 'pay as you go' method. Erika Skopec has a cell phone, "I have it so my family can reach me." For others, the cell phone is for convenience, like Kailey Smith. "I'm almost never home, so it's the only way people can get a hold of me."

So whether you're at the mall, walking in the park, or leaving school, you're almost guaranteed to see people talking on their phone. Are cell phones just a trend? Doubt it!

Showing Off The Bling Bling... Julie Remmert, Karli Swatridge, Megan Joyner, Sarah White, Bevin Joyner, Amber Henderson, and Joanna Vasilescu all like to wear Italian Charm Bracelets. They allow you to collect charms and put them on your bracelet. This hot new jewellery item has charms of the Canadian flag, Hello Kitty, stars, music notes and much more. You can wear your hobbies on your wrist!

Smoooth As Silk... Having no hair has become quite the trend for Ren Men. While walking through the halls, one is certain to see many boys with bald heads. J.R. May followed in Mr. Williamson's footsteps by shaving off his hair for a smooth surface.

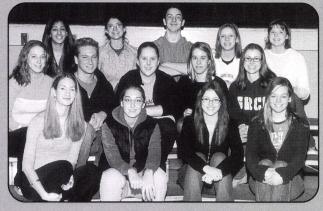

Look At The Body Art... Displaying their tattoos, Brandon Krukowski, Josh Wisted and Dusty Caudle give us a look at the permanent marks on their bodies. "It didn't hurt at all," said the guys, "We're men!" So where are the most popular places for people to get tattoos? For the boys, the arm or the shoulder. For the ladies, the lower back.

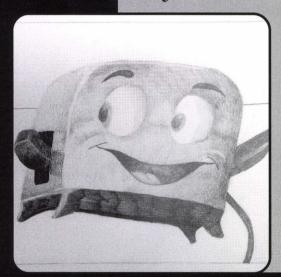

Just Checking Our Messages... Gathering together, Maddie Soye, Kerry Allerton, and Aman Ahluwalia check out each other's cell phones during lunch. Phones come with many different features one can use. Students often swap phones to check out the different perks.

ust when you thought the music students couldn't get any more involved, it turns out many of them have been creating more groups right under our noses. Making music doesn't stop at the end of the day or when band is over. More than a dozen students participate in their own groups in order to continue doing what they love.

As amazing as they are, the music teachers aren't superheroes. There simply aren't enough hours in the day to conduct every ensemble. That's where some pretty exceptional students come in. Either they have taken over from previous years or a number of students decided simultaneously to start up a group. All of these students have played with each other in many bands over the years and as a result most, if not all, are good friends. Although a huge amount of freedom is given regarding choice of music and practices, it salso a lot of responsibility. There are no other instruments to play behind when you don't know your notes and for many, the pressure to please their peers is much more demanding. Overall, being in a small group requires a great deal of commitment and dedication. As if preparing for Music Night as well as Jazz and Spaghetti Night weren't tough enough, the clarinet and saxophone groups also entered Kiwanis. The annual competition is the same one Grand River sends its school bands to, including Symphony and Honour Band.

The stress of an extra group is worth it. You gain amazing friendships by working in a small environment, schedules are flexible and it's a lot easier to focus on your own playing. There are friendly battles including a bet to see who can get better marks at competitions.

Being in a small group increases playing ability drastically, giving students more confidence when playing in other bands. These groups allow students to have more say in what they want their group to achieve. They are a part of the school's best kept secrets.

BIG SOUND Come in small packages!

Is That High Enough? Natalie Shea and Michelle Ma play music during their practice.

A Message Worth Reading... Helping students remember to stay true to their musical passions, this poster is placed at the front of the music room.

Clarinet Democracy... Brenda Dunbar, Dijana Radanovic and Laura Peacock swap opinions on what music piece to play. Brenda feels it's a good thing to just have clarinets so, "[they] aren't drowned out."

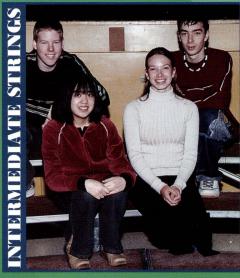

Who Said That Bass Players Didn't Have Style? In strings class, Dave Casey concentrates on playing yet still manages to make it look easy. Dave also played electric bass in the Big Show.

Practice Makes Perfect... Dijana Radanovic knows that the only way to get better is to keep at it, so she plays during a break from clarinet trio. She also played the clarinet in Honour Band.

Saxophone Quartet: Scott Dobbin, Megan Lacoursiere, Ryan Jolivet, Kevin Ryrie

Clarinet Trio: Brenda Dunbar, Dijana Radanovic, Laura Peacock

Making The Violin Cool Again... Perfecting his craft, Alex Saric plucks strings during his Senior Strings class.

C'mon I Want To Play! Waiting patiently for her cue, Maddie Colbeck looks over her music one more time. She is a member of the Intermediate Strings Quartet, and she is also in Symphony.

Watch Out Chopin! Musically inclined Laura Peacock plays the piano during Junior Jazz band.

Senior Strings Quartet: Joy Sirega, Amie Debrone, Dave Casey Missing: Roxana Ghergari

Flute Trio: Natalie Shea, Michelle Ma, Amy Dunbar

Saxophone Punk... Sporting a mohawk, Kevin Ryrie plays along. This is Kevin's second year on Saxophone Quartet along with Ryan Jolivet who believes his group is the best because, "We play loud, we actually practise, and we're saxophones. Enough said."

MUSIC! SPEAKING THE LANGUAGE Anyone can understand...

Music! Music! Music Keeps Playing Inside My Head... Is it Symphony, or Honour Band? Heather Campbell, Jim Barlen, Nicolai Koegler and Tim Dennis blast their trumpets for all to hear at the concert for the parents early this year. Many parents thoroughly enjoyed themselves including Mr. Roe, who commented that he "really liked the Irish Tunes, I thought that those were really well done!"

And If You Will Look To Your Right... Members of the group which traveled to Boston take note of the many facilities at Harvard University during one of the walking tours that the student body participated in during the trip. The group also walked through the New England Aquarium, and the Peabody Essex Museum of Art.

he mood is quiet, all the cello players from GRCI are patiently awating the arrival of Mr. Hector Vasquez. The students chatter amongst themselves. Mr. Julian innocently moves to the phone, dials, asks for Mr. Vasquez. "No, no the lesson was to END at 2:30, not start!" he exclaims. This was the scene as it unfolded one day in January.

Mr. Vasquez is a cello master from South America who came for the day to do a workshop with all the cello students. "His teaching style was 'different' but I learned some neat things from him," said Dave Casey when looking back on that afternoon.

Cello students are only a fraction of the exceptional strings students we have at GRCI. Many students play instruments such as the violin (first and second), double bass, and viola. Our Jr. and Sr. Strings are wonderful groups that our school has to offer and despite the lower numbers they perservere. They make nights like our concert with the grade eights from Stanley Park come off sounding exceptional.

The Symphony is also a nice addition to our list of music groups. "I really like the Pirates of the Carribbean theme song. It sounds great on screen, but even better live!" said Alyssa Woods after walking in to a Thursday morning rehearsal.

The music room is not just a place of work, it's also a place of great fun. On top of the Finding Nemo, Or Something Like It... Ready to go, Tim Dennis, Tori Adam, Evan Hall, Mike Fry, and Paul Reginato, prepare to leave the beautiful Boston Harbor to go do some whale watching. While the watching was amazing, there were few people present, who actually enjoyed the long boat ride to find them. enormous effort people put out just to keep the normal things running, the music room does trips such as the music camps, and the fascinating trip that many took to Boston.

For a small fee many students from all areas of the music department got to go to Boston. They toured downtown Boston, and Salem. They also did some whale watching off a catamaran, and visited the New England Aquarium, where Skye Wallace was one of the luckey ones to receive "(her) first interspecies kiss" from a 800lb. sea lion. Our Rens even shared their musical skills with the people of Boston in two performances. The first was for the residents of an elderly home. The other was for anyone who wanted to listen in the Quincey Market Place. People even danced in the square when the music was played. The experience was great fun for all involved, and thanks to an excellent group of students they were able to make it come off flawlessly.

Seen here are, Julie Michaud, Lindsay Weir, Alix Hall, Bronwyn Roe, Alanna Julian, Laura Peacock, Emily Roe, J.P. Fortier-Lazure, and Evan Hall, giving it there all and sounding fantastic.

How'd She Do That? During the tie-dyeing at Music Camp, Laura Mastnak, Lindsey Herzing, and Hilary Irving watch in wonder as Steph DeBoer creates beautiful items. Students tie-dyed everything from socks to shirts to bed sheets in one of the many fun activities that make up what is Music Camp. "When it came down to it, I had even more fun with the 'camp' part than I had with the 'music' part!" remembered Hilary Irving.

he music room is a hopping place. Just ask anyone who spends any amount of time there. When everyone leaves on trips, that's nearly the only time that it gets quiet. "Time to kiss Moose!" Alanna Julian cried at the 13th annual fall music camp. A number of the grade eight students weren't too fond of the idea of kissing the deer head mounted on the wall.

"I'll do it but I don't want a picture, I don't want to remember this," grumbled Nicole Woods. It was a good weekend and for those who had already gone through this little tradition, it just made the day. "We do music camp to get away from the school, to have fun with the students, and to give them a chance to play some 'different' music," said Mr. Julian.

But music camp is not the only thing that goes on in the music department, au contraire! Many different music groups keep the music rooma lively place. "I'm involved in Honour Band, Symphony Orchestra, Concert Choir, and Senior Jazz. I'd have to say the most fun comes from Concert Choir, primarily for the aspect of being able to take part in the delight of singing. Plus, Mr. Julian won't let me quit!" stated Duncan Worsley when asked about his involvement in the music program.

Hey! That's Not At School... "Moose", the beloved (yet oddly named) mounted deer head, looks on as the music students of both GRCI and Stanley Park S.P.S. make beautiful music. This wonderful experience is made possible by the dedication of both our hard working students and entertaining teachers (for example the antics of both Mr. & Mrs. Julian).

ize me with using the microphones as well as the experience of being in front of a live audience. I chose to be in both choirs purely for my love of singing!" declared Amber Timmons.

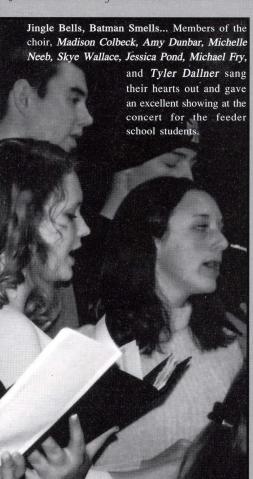

With all this going on, you have to wonder who can keep it all running. The main adhesives holding it all together are our marvelous music teachers, Mr. Julian, Mrs Baer, and Mrs. Baxter. There is another small group, known as the Music Exec, that helps keep the ball rolling. When asked what it was that they enjoyed about this small, mysterious group, Scott Dobbin could simply say that "Music Exec is F-U-N." He later deduced that it was also a great experience because, "You learn a lot about what's going on and it's a great group that always tries to make everyone feel included and get involved."

With all these great people helping to keep our music program running, it's no surprise that we have amazing choirs that sing like angels!

Jazzing Up The Season! Members of the GRCI Jazz Choir, Meaghan Reid, Tori Adam, Scott Dobbin, Brenda Dunbar, Alanna Julian, Michael Fry, Rachelle Olsen, Bronwyn Roe, and Emily Roe, look and sound wonderful as the intro to the fashion show for cardiac research. The objective of this evening at City Hall was to raise money for a new Cardiac Research center in St. Mary's hospital. Our choir sang about 5 songs while the models strutted their stuff. Overall the evening raised approximately $8000.

The New and Exciting World Of Work Finding a Part-time Job

he transition from Grade Ten to Grade Eleven is very significant as many benefits come with being a senior student. One is the opportunity to get a driver's licence! Another issue for Grade Eleven students is finding work. So where do people get their first part-time job? You will find that there are many different things one can do.

Jamie Koufis works at Brubachers. He cooks and washes dishes, and then does "anything [he] wants," with his hard earned money.

Many people start out by working at McDonalds like Sarah Chonko. Sarah also admitted, "Having a job gives me independence."

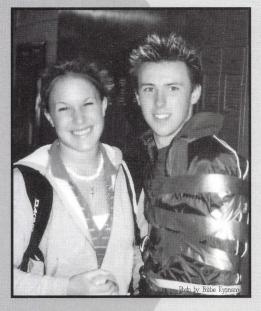

One way to get a job is through connections. Greg Armorer found his job through his boxing teacher. Many people find jobs in just this way. When asked what he spends his dough on Greg replied, "I put it in the bank." Maybe he is saving for some new wheels or post secondary school.

What if someone doesn't have the time every week to work a steady job? Maricela Rivera found the answer. "I work for Bingeman's Catering Department. I only work when I'm called. I usually work a 10-12 hour shift." She likes spending her money on clothes and trips.

Then there are always the few people who don't work because they want to focus on school work, have no time because of extracurriculars, or in Katrina Milne's case, an injury. She explained, "I don't have a job because I am on crutches."

And there you have it. In high school you meet different people with different jobs with different spending ideas! Part-time jobs help prepare young people for the future just like high school. These Grade Elevens take each step in their senior years of high school to achieve a better future in the new and exciting world of work!

Intrigued by a profession but not completely sure if it's the right one for you? Why not do what dozens of Grand River students are doing and take Co-op? Exciting and full of opportunities, Co-op is a fun experience according to participating students. Lindsay Schwartz had only good things to say about her placement. "Co-op is awesome! It really helps you find out your future plans. Less time at school, more time for fun! Sounds good to me and barely any homework. Seriously!" Sounds amazing but was it really all just fun and games?

Students used their personal interests to help them find a placement where their talents would be most useful. Sukh Binning used his skills and interests to land him a placement at 3rd Degree Entertainment. "It was awesome. It's my new home away from home." What was the best part of his job? According to him it was, "...freestylin' in da booth!" Sheena Harrington also used her interests to land her a job at the Betty Thompson Youth Centre, which she found both compelling and exhausting. "It really helped me to realize that social work is what I want to get into. It's given me a chance to talk to people who are already involved in the field as well as experience the work itself," she explained. Speak-

Can You Believe It... Sheena Harrington enthusiastically shows off part of her display to Brittany Rieck. Sheena did her placement at the Betty Thompson Youth Centre in Social Work. Thanks to her participation in Co-op, she realized that she enjoys this field and would like to pursue it in the future.

ing of experience, does participating in Co-op give you an edge over others looking to work in the same area? Many students and teachers agree and feel that by experiencing a work area early on, students are better prepared for the real world. Many students would nothave been ale to have had this experience if it was not for the Co-op program. "I've loved Co-op so far this year. It has given me so many experiences that I just could not have gotten anywhere else," admits Heather Boyd. "I decided to enroll in Co-op so that I could participate in something I love," replied Bevin Joyner. Co-op offers students many opportunities and skills which will benefit them throughout their entire future and any career field which they choose to explore.

The Co-op Fair provides an excellent opportunity for people participating in the class to share their knowledge with other students from school. It also allows students to realize the many options that are available in the working world.

Say Hello To My Little Friend... Adam McCarter holds up part of his display board. His placement was at Bluenotes in Conestoga Mall.

Carebear Countdown 5,4,3,2,1... Back from her job teaching little kids how to count, Bai Cha explains her duties at Crestview to Marijana Tomic as she passes by.

Did I Forget Anything... Before talking to a student, Filip Mares glances over his board. Filip earned Most Enthusiastic Presenter at the Co-op Fair.

Experiencing the Future...Now!

Co-op At Its Best!

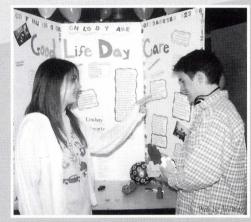

Aww...Look At The Puppy... Someone seems to have made a new friend at the Co-op fair. Amanda Kraft completed her placement at the Blue Cross Animal Hospital. For her display she decided to bring in one of the patients. Working with animals seemed to be a popular choice with students when picking their placement. Her display was definitely a hit at the Co-op fair.

Look Out Trading Spaces... Jenna Sasche looks over one of the many pamphlets she created to accompany her display board. Her placement was at Decolyse Designs working with interior design. She provided different types of samples and colour swatches to give advice to anyone who was looking to do some redecorating anytime soon. Keep your eyes open in the future, she just may be the next big show on televison!

I Told You So... An enthusiastic Lindsay Schwartz points out information to an interested Eric Houston. Each Co-op student was judged on his or her project. Criteria included the ways in which students answered questions asked by the judges and on the method they chose to present their material. The winners of each category received a $20 gift certificate to Fairview Park Mall.

Cut, Wash And Style... Careful not to burn herself, Jen Clayton puts hot rollers in Steph Schmidt's hair as part of her Co-op presentation. She was the only Co-op student who brought in a human model to use as part of her display. Her duties at Domani Hair included such things as washing clients' hair, doing laundry, sweeping, offering refreshments to clients as well as cutting foils. Many students do not get to do all the tasks permanent employees perform due to a lack of training or knowledge. Jen Clayton received Honourable Mention for Most Creative Display.

npredictable. That is probably the best word to describe the Boys' Basketball teams of Grand River. Both Senior and Junior teams took their fans on a roller-coaster ride filled with excitement through thrilling plays and wins throughout the season.

The Senior Boys' Basketball Team was relatively new and no one knew what to expect; the bleachers filled with students hoping for a suspenseful season. That's just what they got. The boys kicked off the season with a bang, owning their first game with a 13 point lead over Elmira. They struggled for a bit, then bounced back with a four game winning streak. Mr. Wright commented on the team's progress, noting, "We made fewer of those first year rookie errors' as the year wore on."

The crowd was faithful to the team and the games; many were in awe of the team's skill. Others were there to witness the intense rivalry between schools. "[The season] was great fun, but I hate Preston," joked Garrett Suska, the player best known for his dyed pink socks, another crowd favourite. Bobby Colorado and Imad Qahwash have been selected to represent Grand River in the 2004 WCSSAA Senior Boys' Basketball All- Star game. The boys finished in a 4th place ranking, creating a good lead way for next year's team!

The Junior Boys' team captivated Grand River students with an astounding 6 game winning streak at the beginning of the year. Fans were thrilled to watch the team display good sportsmanship and amazing team work. Captain and MVP Nick Bowers reflected that, "our season was filled with many ups and downs, but we finished strong and had an awesome time doing it!"

The team holds an amazing record with an incredible 22 wins and only 10 losses overall. Winning first place in tournaments in Stratford and London also didn't hurt. Filled with some very talented players, the Junior Boys' Basketball Team shows tremendous promise for the years to come!

Bearing the cold, team members, Dustin Zender, Bobby Colorado, Zeljko Polovina, Luke Mydlarz, Garrett Suska, Travis Coyle, Xia Cha, Adam Colorado and Imad Qahwash, stop between games for quick picture in Sarnia. The boys participated in a tournament along with 12 other teams and placed second overall. Despite the fact that the team needed to work extra hard on much of the trip, the boys still did get to have some fun in the evening. They did such things as staying up into the wee hours of the morning watching The Exorcist and playing basketball video games in their hotel.

Feeling The Frostbite... Dashing down the slopes as fast as a bullet is Scott Stobbe who is one of the many talented skiers of the Alpine Ski Team. They had a very successful year according to Mrs. McCarthy and Mr. Nicholls. "All of the team members are really talented skiers!" commented Sonya Hones. Most Rens would be terrified to put a board on each foot and slide down an extremely steep hill, but that's what makes the Alpine Ski Team fearless.

Planning Ahead... Grade Nine, Gareth Arnott mentally tries to plan out his next move in the curling game as he plays against the opposing school. Chris Reinhart acknowledged that, "for our first year on the team we swept away the competition."

rand River Renegades are always energetic and pumped to play, no matter what the weather condition. Whether it's on the ice, down the slopes or in the snow, these Rens just slip on their skis or grab their brooms, ready to have a good time.

For these psyched athletes, possibilities are endless! Take the Curling Team for example. Greg Carter commented that, "We froze the other teams in their tracks." Many other members acknowledged that being on the Curling Team was a very positive experience. Tim Dennis admitted, "Everyone had hearts of stone!" All the team members recalled that the coaches definitely contributed to their success. As expressed by Mr. Galasso, "The curlers had an excellent season and everyone displayed excellent sportsmanship."

On a different note the members of the Nordic Ski team had a fun time racing each other along the paths. All the Nordic Ski Team members noted that the season was filled with good times. Joy Sirega willingly confirmed that, "being on the team was truly unforgettable. We were like a family!"

It's down the hill and up again for the Alpine Ski Team... literally! They have a great team filled with extremely talented skiers. Most of the members have been on the team for numerous years and affirmed that Mrs. McCarthy and Mr. Nicholls were phenomenal coaches and were always equipped with a smile and a good sense of humour. "They taught us so many new skills and knew how to have fun while doing it!" commented Jenny Lynn Crawford.

Although the snow has melted and the season is over the spirit of winter will forever live on in these Rens nother great hockey season ends, and our players have something to be proud of. The Boys' Hockey team, led by the fearless Mr. Millar, Mr. Rickwood, Mr. Massicotte and Ms. Crawley played several games undefeated. The boys practised, trained and played really hard this season. "We played as individuals at the beginning of the season but came together as a team after the prep school tourny. That was the start of 19 consecutive wins," remarked Alan Dodd

The highlight of their season by far was the Father Goetz Tournament on January 28th. With their exceptional skill they managed to pull a bronze medal. They went 6-0 into the tournament. At that point in time their score was 17-0. Going into the CWOSSA tournament they were said to be the number one seed.

At CWOSSA the boys suffered a 2-1 loss to Orangeville in their final game. Sadly the road ended there for our Ren Men. Even though they did not win the championship, their efforts and hard work made them triumphant to us.

When asked Mr Millar added, "The coaches would like to thank the team for an outstanding, successful season capped off by yet another WCSSAA championship. Three in a row—Incredible! Your effort, hard work and team discipline makes coaching a joy. Thanks Laughter, The Best Medicine... Fellow team members Vicky Haid, Katrina Loader and Amy Harrison share a laugh after scoring an unexpected goal. Amy added, "The year was good. We got some new players out and they really did well. The girls are like family." That goal led onto many more, and a win at home.

The Girls' Hockey Team has much to be proud of as well. With their hard practices and almost effortless play they dominate the league. Coached by the wonderful Mr. Tennant and the great Mr. Thorne these girls were ready for everything that was thrown at them.

An amazing season was played, and the girls excelled in every game.

"They played well, and we had fun. That's why I coach," stated Mr. Tennant. An outstanding effort was made from both hockey teams and fans watching from the stands. Congratulations on another great season and your great teamwork.

You truly make Grand River proud.

Dare To Interfere... Positioned in her flawless form, Sabrina Wirz waits to save the next ball headed in her direction. The hard play put up by the girls paid off as they made it to semi-finals. They showed a lot of progress on the hardwood floors of Grand River's gymnasium. The fellow senior team members experienced both the highs and the lows of competitive tournaments and league play. The team has much to look forward to for next season, and will continue to excel in their other sport involvements.

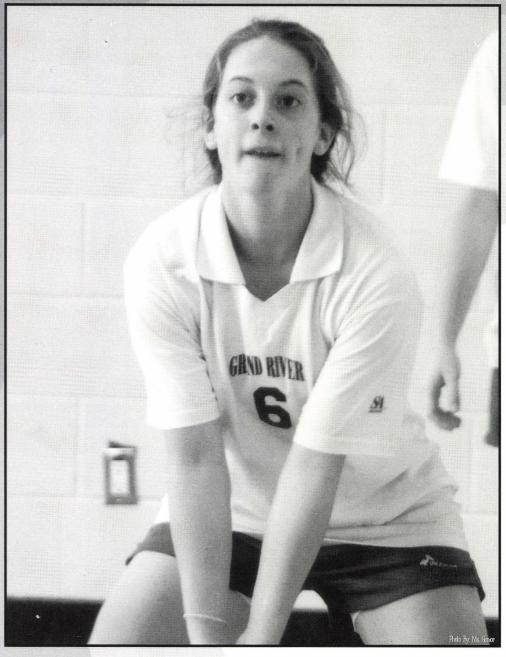

When Is It Our Turn? Senior girls, Mailou Vang, Maddie Soye, Lindsay Stevenson, and Sabrina Wirz are on the edge of their seats while waiting for their last home game to come to an end. The girls defeated WODSS 3-1. These Renegade ladies were always anxious to continue to improve their team skills.

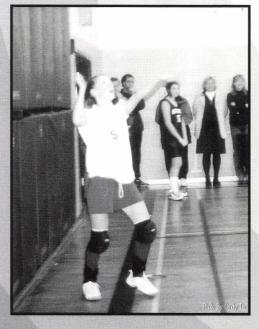

The Ball's All Mine, Baby... Junior team player Katie Woodhouse steps up to serve the ball with hopes of scoring a few points for the team. The junior girls showed focus, power, and determination all season. These characteristics were demonstrated by beating WCI in their first home game 3-1.

Some Advice For The Big Game... Senior player Maddie Colbeck receives some last minute advice from Coach Senior before winding up for the next play. "Ms. Senior did an awesome job instructing the team. She definitely helped unify the team's skills as a whole," stated Sarah Chonko. the team manager.

BUMPING, SETTING, AND VOLLEYING THEIR WAY TO THE TOP

ports entrance fee: twenty-five dollars. Sweatpants: thirty-five dollars. One incredible season: priceless! Great unity was reflected through some of the tough games that both junior and senior teams had to face. As some of the fresh talents came together to form a team, the senior girls were practising hard every day after school to restore some of their smooth moves that were discovered in previous years.

A first year, senior member, Kerry Allerton admits, "It was such a good season and the team played so well together!" As always the girls put forth their full dedication. The team's ambition was throttled by their desire to make their season fun filled and successful. "I think the whole team should be extremely proud of what we accomplished together," stated Bojana Josipovic a last year, senior player.

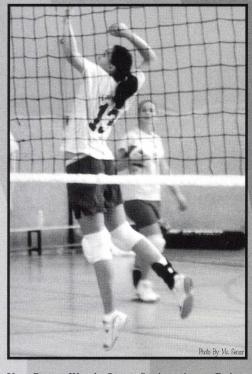

As fresh talents graced the courts, the team soon came to realize that they were unstoppable. Although they didn't make it to CWOSSA, they still placed high in league play. "This season was very exciting," stated Ljiljana Todorovic. "And the coaches definitely led us in the right direction," added Donna Kalenic. This year was a stepping stone for the junior girls. Now that they have a great foundation of strong team-mates, all of the team's talents will unleash and shine through for next season.

With the help of Ms. Ruby and Mr. Lauer, the school was able to continue the tradition of putting together a varsity volleyball team for the ladies. This gave the girls the opportunity to let loose and have fun with a sport they love. The varsity team showed great confidence and poise as they furthered into their season with unity. It was a complete team effort that brought them to the end of a very successful season. Practices were often difficult to wrap up for these ladies mainly because of the immense enthusiasm and desire to continue playing! Rina Mistry confidently states that, "Playing with the varsity team was so much fun, it allowed me to enhance my skills."

With closure to all three teams' seasons, the girls would agree with Mailou Vang when she says, "Volleyball is all about having fun!"

You Better Watch Out... Senior player Bojana Josipovic is positioned in mid-air prepared to hit a power strike. Bojana was a leader this season as she has been participating in volleyball since she came to Grand River. "Though this season was tough, it was really fun, and we really enjoyed it," confirmed Maddie Soye.

If you have been to the Pep Assemblies this year or walked past the music room, you have most likely heard the booming bass of Phil Massicotte. Phil is a member of many musical ensembles as well as the band Scripted. Not only that but this summer he was offered the chance of a lifetime.

While watching T.V. his dad happened to see a commercial for the new reality show Rock Camp. Phil then filled out a very large application and hoped for the best. After receiving a call back for a live audition in Toronto, he was invited to join the cast. He was flown out to Halifax in early August and returned home on the 24th. Despite some lost luggage along the way, he had an excellent time.

When asked about being followed around by cameras constantly Phil added that, "it was hard to act normally for the first day, but I got used to it quickly."

Members of the cast are put into smaller bands. The winning band then receives a recording contract with EMI Records. Once the show airs, viewers will be able to call in and vote for their favourite band for the Viewer's Choice Award.

So next time you hear the bass coming from the tech hall, take a minute to sneak a quick peak. You just might see Phil rockin' away. Who knows...maybe he'll be doing it up on stage sooner than we think!

Rockin' The Casba... A very talented Phil Massicotte plucks away on his bass at the Pep Assembly with his band, Scripted.

On Your Mark, Get Set... An anxious Chris Drees, Craig Stoveld and Mike Jefkins test out one of the robots they had built. The robots were designed to seek out a flame and then extinguish it.

Righty Tighty, Lefty Loosey... A determined Tom Ngo works on the finishing touches for the firefighting robot. His team and he were busy making the final corrections before leaving for the competition in Connecticut Ain't She A Beauty... This is not the robot going to the competition, but it is still quite a sight. The students tested the robots and decided which was the best.

ould you be able to build a firefighting robot if someone told you to?

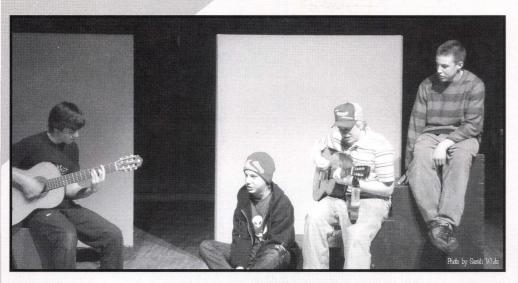

Bryan Remmert, Tom Ngo, Craig Stoveld, Mike Jefkins, Chris Drees and Ryan Jolivet could.

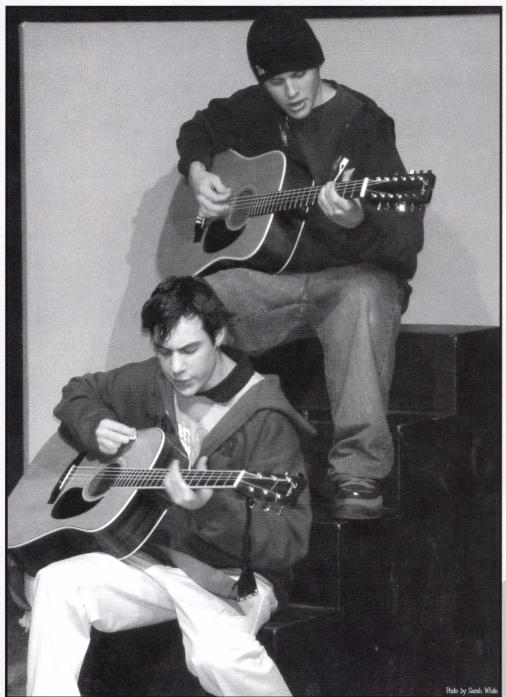

These six robotics students from Mr. Csanits' class were presented with the challenge at the beginning of the school year. They were to build an autonomous firefighting robot using recycled parts. The robot must navigate through a maze to find a lit candle. One team of students was so successful in this assignment that they travelled to Connecticut for the Trinity College Firefighting Robotics competition. This group was able to attend this competition due to the support of a Grand River graduate, Nelson Leite.

Remarkably, our school had the only team from Ontario who participated. There were 120 students who entered into the competition from around the world. Winners received a cash prize which will be divided amongst the students and teams for the following year.

Campfire Sing-A-Long... Enjoying the spotlight, Mike Howey, Robbie Crossman, Mike Arnott and Tom Good get together for a group performance at the Coffee House. If you are not that comfortable being on stage alone, then bringing up some friends is an excellent way to join in the fun.

Trumpets On Parade... A very dedicated Alex Aitken, Tom Moffett and Heather Campbell give their all at Junior Jazz practice. Many students give up their after school time to participate in extra-curricular activities such as music or sports. Our school has always been well known for the number of activities available to students.

And The Award Goes To... A very thankful Mrs. Prysnuk is presented with the Paul Harris Fellowship Award for her outstanding contribution to the teaching profession. She has been a teacher here at Grand River for 27 years and is currently a guidance counsellor.

Singing Together In Perfect Harmony... Putting their heart and soul into the song, Thomas McLeod and Alex Strenzke give an excellent performance at the Coffee House. This event is a great way for students to showcase some original songs and pieces of writing.

All Dressed Up And Ready to Act! Although acting may seem easy, there is a lot of effort put into many hours of rehearsing. Preparing for the big event, Cora Klimek, Jon Cassels, and Kayla Pratt recite their lines it look easy! Andrew Kolb, the play's stage manager, Exaggerated Colours! All actors and actresses need makeup, especially to make the portrayal of a character come to life. For dramatic effect, Meaghan Reid puts bright red lipstick on Rachelle Olsen. Guys also had makeup put on them. So what did they think of all this? "We all discovered new things, one being that mascara is cool for guys," joked Dave Casey.

Humour Me! Love and Work Enough provided many laughs for the audience and students played a variety of characters. In one scene, Sara Butkovic, Meaghan Reid, and Brendan Armott pretended to be cows. Brian VanNorman, the adjudicator for the event commented about the creative use of staging and how students dramatically played inanimate objects.

ight different schools across the region performed at one big festival this year. The Sears District Drama Festival 2004. Among the eight different schools was of course, Grand River, showcasing our many fine and talented young actors and actresses.

In a production called Love and Work Enough (conceived and edited by Peggy Sample).GRCI students portrayed the lives of European immigrants coming to Canada. The focus was primarily on women immigrants and their experiences in a new country. You may be wondering "How can an audience possibly find a play about immigration to be fascinating?" Well, the script was comical and there were plenty of entertaining scenes including lively music and dancing, which kept the audience interested and burnoused

The audience reaction was great, proving that the subject of immigration can make a success ful play!

Grand River's Dramafest cast was surrounded with "love and work enough." "The cast was really talented and great to work with," Kevin Coffey stated, although he further joked, "Mrs. C was questionably calm. She didn't even threaten the stage crew!"

For those who count this as their first show, they vow it won't be their last. This being her first year in Dramafest, Amie Debrone reflected on the fun experience. "I'm very glad I had the chance to work with such an enthusiastic group of people. I wish this wasn't my last year!"

Led by drama teacher, Mrs. Carlson, the GRCI Dramafest cast came home with two well-deserved awards from the event. The cast received an Award of Excellence for ensemble acting and an Award of Distinctive Merit was given to Josh Anstett for lighting. "I can honestly say we had three weeks, with Love and Work Enough, to produce another remarkable award-winning production! Bravo!" Mrs. Carlson proudly commented on the performance of our fellow Renegade actors and actresses.

Just For Laughs... Everyone needs to remember to have some fun during rehearsals! Natalie Herzing, Paul Rachfalowski, Jamie Russell, and Kayla Pratt share a laugh between scenes, as they rehearse just days before Dramafest at St. Benedict's. On the actual night of the event, adjudicator Brian VanNorman described the cast's enthusiastic performance as a "strong show [with] great energy!"

Poised And Ready! Looking perfect for their parts. Nick Rollins and Paul Rachfalowski are acting out their roles convincingly on stage. Love and Work Enough was a great success among the audience and the adjudicator liked it too.

Caught In The Act! Immersed in the scene, Kevin Coffey, Katie Gosse, Sarah Code, and Kayla Pratt act a scene on stage. Many days went into preparing for The 2004 Sears District Drama Festival, but it was sure worth it, as Jacqui McLaughlin exclaimed, "Dramafest was super awesome!"

All Right Children, Time For Rehearsal! Not much is known about what happens behind the scenes. Jenna MacRae, Sarah Brown, and Jon Cassels practise their lines during a dress rehearsal. In preparing for Dramafest, not only did students have to memorize a lot of lines, but they had to learn how to sing and step-dance too!

hen sitting at our desks sometimes we start to gaze out the window and think about being anywhere but in class. Luckily, there are many opportunities that allow students to get away from the daily routine of classes and homework.

This year, the Girls' Soccer Team had the chance to venture off to Hawaii for a tournament. "It was hot and beautiful. [It's] unbelievable how different it was." Catherine Nutt stated. Jacqueline Bell chimed in, "It was a lot of fun and we have a close knit team now."

Another adventure some students joined was a trip to New York for the World Issues course. One student who was lucky enough to escape the blahs of school, Eleni Tsimpragos, raved, "[I had the] best time ever, making memories in Times Square with my gals."

The trips offered came in many different sizes and costs. One of the smaller excursions was to Medieval Times. Students went to Toronto for the evening to experience a night of medieval history while cheering, eating, and being entertained at the same time. "Medieval Times was the best experience I've had this year!" Tamie Russell exclaimed.

Cruisin' Down The River... Waiting for their boat to get going, Jessica Rachfalowski, Steve Gosse, Craig Stoveld and Mr. Hunsberger chit-chat and give their legs a break, while riding the water. They decided to take the scenic route across a river and view the becutiful buildings and bridges for an afternoon, while on their trip in Russia.

Over the March Break, students had the opportunity to fly off the continent to enjoy eleven blissful days in Spain. Rachel Daub commented, "Spain was a blast."

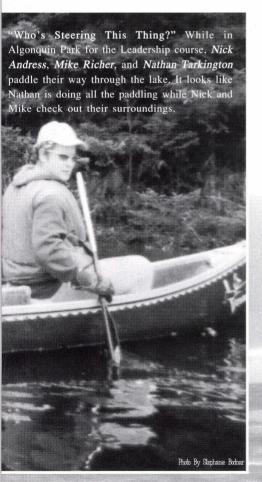

One of the longer trips was to Russia. During the past summer, Mr. Hunsberger and some > privileged students boarded a plane for Moscow. The band of travellers got around the country by bus, boat and their feet. Some of the places they were able to vist included the University of Moscow, the Olympic Stadium, Cathedrals, and many more historical buildings.

> Grade Twelve students, in the Leadership program, were able to go camping in Algonquin Park for a week. There they had the chance to learn handy wilderness skills and to participate in canoe trips.

Thanks to our great school, these students were able to experience a once in a life time opportunity, exploring the world outside of the classroom.

Having A Doggone Good Time... With masterfully applied make-up to portray spotted dogs, Hayley Knechtel and Chrissy Skovsgaard relax after performing "Who Let the Dogs Out" at Airband 2004 held at University Heights Secondary School.

Expressing Emotions... Wowing the crowd with an impressive cover of 'Cute Without the 'E' by Taking Back Sunday, Brendan Arnott and Dave Casey raised the standard of live performances. Brendan got the attention of the audience beforehand, announcing to the crowd, "I dedicate this song to someone very special, you know who you are."

one are the familiar moves and sounds of past students, replaced with a new breed of talent, rich with indisputable charisma, wit, and skills, helping to enforce the idea that here at Grand River anything is possible.

Who knew that a steamy Pep Assembly dance routine could boost school spirit so drastically or that over twelve different nationalities could be properly represented during one sensational night? Even more surprising is that over twenty kids of different backgrounds, musical tastes, and skills got together and recreated the sounds of Billy Idol, Greenday, Nirvana and even the Beatles. Being on the Dance Team, or in the MIC or Big Show, gave students member and Grand student, Kevin Coffey. the chance to express a side of them that otherwise may never have been seen.

You would never have been able to tell that it was senior Joschka Sawatzky's first time performing in the Big Show. His stage presence, along with his raw and emotionally-charged voice, just screamed 'star material' - not to mention his emo-boy appeal. "He's got sexy hair, and an even sexier voice," joked Aaron Schwab, who lent his prime bass skills to many of the songs, including Brand New and Michelle Branch covers. The intense practising required taught him many things to take back to practices with his own band, Crossing Out Names, with fellow

You would not have realised that the members of the MIC show, appropriately titled 'A Night Around the World', never had a dress rehearsal due to a winter snowstorm, or that the Dance team coped under strict deadlines to come up with their choreography. That's because the students involved have a quality about them you can't help but notice - vision.

here is more to badminton than just rallying a birdie back and forth. When the team members reunited back in February, the committed boys and girls got together every Tuesday and Thursday at 3:30 pm to practise hard. "Practise was great. It gave us the opportunity to play against people at different skill levels," admitted Erin Kenzie. "It definitely allowed me to enhance my skills and have fun with a favourite past-time we all have in common!" stated Nancy Yang. These team members developed their skills and advanced their team to a higher level. The team did awesome with help and appreciated dedication from coaches, Ms. Antonini and Mrs. Park. "The coaches led the team in the right direction. It was the type of guidance and support that was needed," shared Neena Lala. Assisting the coaches were some of the senior members of the team. "Scott Zettel showed me some pretty smooth moves," admitted Jasmine Snider. The team advanced in league play and made it to CWOSSA. Although they didn't place first, they still gained much skill and appreciation for this fun filled sport.

The season for the Tennis Team began in late September, sped by, and soon came to an end. Before they could put away their racquets, Adela Aprodu won the Girls' singles and Erin Kenzie and Kevin Ryrie placed second in mixed doubles for WCSSAA. After WCSSAA, the Girls' singles and mixed doubles went on to CWOSSA.

Our stronghearted Girls' Slo-Pitch team gave the ball a piece of their minds. From the try-outs to the practices, the ladies worked and practised hard to strive for their best. The girls had a fun season with coaches that were awe-some. When asked what she thought of the team this year, Jessie Cunningham stated, "It's a lot of fun. Everyone is enthusiastic, including our coaches."

All of the teams that played with balls and racquets had plenty of fun to go along with their successful seasons.

wim team? Since when do we have a swim team? After four years of not having enough people, Grand River has brought back the swim team and what a good decision it was! Emily Roe admitted that, "[she] was really happy that there was a swim team because it was really fun!"

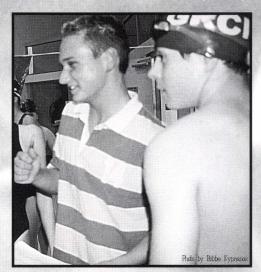

With the help of coaches: Mrs. Park, Ms. McCarthy, Mr. Campbell and Dave Bodnar as well as captains: Malory Rittinger, Mel Cave and Matt Kidd, these swimmers came a long way. "Dave did a great job and helped us improve as swimmers," exclaimed Tori Adam. They met twice a week at 6:15 am where they practised in the pool to attain their personal best. "The early morning practices were tough but well worth it," reflected Laura Peacock.

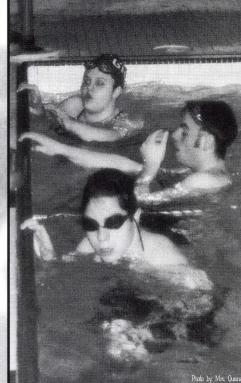

The Senior Girls' Free Relay Team advanced to OFSAA where Malory Rittinger, Monica Blazon, Nicole Langford and Mel Cave finished as consolation finalists. Congratulations to all the swimmers on a great season!

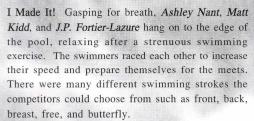

Another water sport that had a great season was the Rowing Team! The only members of K-W Rowing that attend Grand River were Logan Beatty and Dave Casey. They practised every night Monday to Friday, from six until eight. These boys got involved when "a coach from Rowing visited Grand River in March to get more people involved from the community," commented Dave Casey. "I like rowing because it's more challenging than people think," added Logan Beatty.

anadian weather is a beautiful thing. There is really no way to perfectly predict what Mother Nature will next bring to our doorstep. One way you can tell is that when the Track and Field team is out then anything goes, but when the Golf team is at play it's going to be a nice day.

One has to wonder whether golf is truly a sport though. When asked about this Chris Reinhart noted, "Golf is harder than baseball. In golf, you have to play your foul balls!"

As Canucks, we are blessed with all four seasons and get to see all the extremes. Even when it's raining or shining, the Track and Field Team is always out and about (usually practising after school). They just don't let the weather wear them down, as Maddie Colbeck proved, "Even though the weather's been all over the place this season, everyone is still enthusiastic about practice."

The main thing that keeps these athletes going is the fact that they can hang out with their friends, while getting exercise too. Dave Bodnar chimed in, "I had a lot of fun at practices with Bojana Josipovic, Nicole Howard, and Lauren Zintel. Jill Simmons helped me get back into hurdles."

The bonds in this team are very strong. Maddie Soye exclaimed, "This was the first year Higher Standards... Athletes are always pushing themselves further to achieve new personal records. Jordan Cobourne jumped high and "raised the bar." Jordan also advanced to OFSAA Western Regionals in the hurdling event.

I ran track and it was surprisingly fun. Everyone was so supportive of each other."

In a team like this, athletes can find their own little "niche," or area of expertise, and when they do, our Renegades excel in it. Dustin Zender enthused, "This is the first year I've done high-jump and I'm already breaking school records!"

Many other members of the Track and Field team did very well too. Twenty-five athletes made it to CWOSSA. Kyle Dekker and Steph DeBoer led the way to the OFSSA Western Regionals. They qualified in two events each and twelve other competitors joined them at OFSSA.

These atheletes sure know how to make their mark!

ur undefeated Lady Rens are storming back into action, ready to bend it, chest it, head it, and kick it all the way back into first place.

"Hustle, hustle," encouraged Coach Williamson, as the girls desperately attempted to ignore the freezing cold weather on an April afternoon while playing against Cameron Heights. In the meantime, Ms. Antonini was behind the lines equipped with mittens and warm sweaters for anyone who needed them. "We had a terrific season," acknowledged Janelle Scheifele. "We rocked the field," Jacqueline Bell proudly bragged.

manage to dominate the fields and win a title Grand River can be proud of! The ladies went into CWOSSA with a total of 50 goals in six games and none against them.

During the March Break, the coaches arranged a trip to Hawaii, where the girls played against the Hawaiian Bulls and other teams. In the end the ladies placed third. After an exhausting game, the rest of the week consisted of surfing, tanning, sightseeing, and shopping. Alyssa Coppolino remarked that, "the Hawaiian dancers were the best part of the trip."

Our Ren Men have also mastered the playing fields. Coach Rickwood commented that, "they had an explosive offence that could rarely be stopped by opposing defenders." Team member Aco Lucic added that, "all the guys on the team were talented and experienced."

While watching the game, team manager, Donna Kalenic reported that soccer is definitely one of her favourite sports. "I enjoyed it even more when our team was winning," she commented. In the end both teams demonstrated excellent sportsmanship and outstanding playing tactics on the field. It's safe to say that soccer is without a doubt a sport that Renegades can watch and enjoy.

Outta My Way! During the March Break the Girls' Soccer Team enjoyed a relaxing trip to Hawaii. During this game Alysssa Coppolino desperately attempted to retrieve the ball from an opposing Hawaiian team member before a goal was scored. The girls worked hard and definitely deserved a day at the beach.

Back Up, The Ball's Mine! In the background Bobby Colorado observes and gets ready to block as multitalented Marcel Lakoseljac blocks his Forest Heights opponent while quickly stealing the ball. These Ren Men know the meaning of hard work and dedication.

Ready...Set...Kick! Defending her goal, Lindsay-Anne Freire battles an opponent in hopes of stealing the ball. Since the beginning of the season, our Lady Rens have been undefeated play after play. Going into quarter finals our ladies finished with no goals scored against them.

rouch, touch, engage! If you attended any of the Boys' Rugby games this season, you would be very familiar with this phrase. The boys had a strong season starting in Ohio.

The Senior Boys started off their strong season with a victory against Elmira before leaving for Ohio. Once there, despite injuries, they managed to come together as a team and work as one. Josh Wisted added, "The team worked together and this year we played as one whole instead of a bunch of guys on the field." They came away from Ohio with one victory against Grove City.

Then it was back to playing on home turf. Their season was played with both a strong offence and defence. Playing together was a crucial part of the boys' success. When asked about the team Travis Coyle confessed, "With my 14 brothers on the field, we [were] unstoppable." The boys played hard in playoffs and showed true Renegade sportsmanship and spirit.

One obstacle the Senior team faced was multiple in juries to key players. After Ohio the team lost eight starters. Luckily, seven of them made quick recoveries and were able to rejoin the team.

Unfortunately, the Juniors had a rough season. They played strong with heart and with pride. However, they were outplayed in most of their season. Despite all this, they managed to win their first game in two years!

The Bantam Team was part of the Junior Team. They played along side to help gain experience for the future. Jeff Beitz added that, "it was a pleasure to play with these men."

When asked to sum up his rugby experience after his first year of playing Cory Schnurr explained, "Rugby's all heart. If you don't love it, don't play.

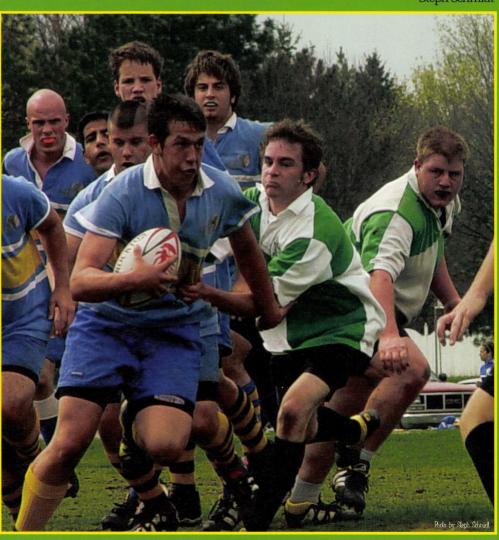

Plain and simple." After playing for five years George Vrentzos added, "The heart. The determination. The sweat. The blood. It's all worth it for those sexy shorts."

Getting Diriy Rugby Girls Gonz

hat makes Girls' Rugby the most watched female sport at Grand River? It could be because "it's different from any other sport. There's more contact," described Jenny Lynn Crawford. Or maybe it's because "it's the only sport that gives us girls a chance to prove how tough we really are," added Katie Thiele.

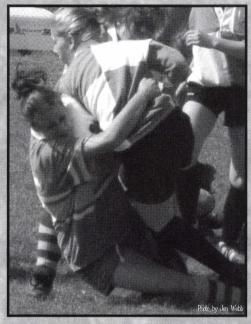

In all truth this game isn't only about being tough. It's also about being motivated. Even after being tackled numerous times, these girls are determined to get their ball in the other team's end zone. Knowing how to play the game can only get you so far, but "coming in with heart gets you all the way," acknowledged Mr. Huggins. Maybe that's why they were Ohio champions for the second year in a row!

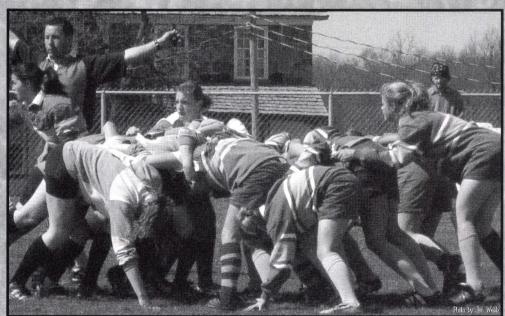

Grand River and neighbouring teams, WCI and WO were the only Canadian girls that competed in the Ohio tournament against the States. After winning the Championship game, "it was worth the long drive to cross the border with the trophy," exclaimed fourth year veteran Natalie Gregg.

What makes this team so successful?

Britt and Jess Walden agreed that "over the last few years, Ms. Crawley and Mr. Huggins have been so supportive. They give us the drive to keep playing our hardest."

With everything that Ms. Crawley and Mr. Huggins have taught them, these girls will pass on their knowledge for years to come. Sarah Peacock and Jen Webb

The Voice of the Coach

Twelve years ago a female student asked Mr. Huggins to start a Girls' Rugby Team for Grand River. Figuring that there wouldn't be enough girls to create a team, he said he would if she could gather up 30 other girls; she brought him 92 instead. That year they made it all the way to OFSAA.

So what is it about the game that Mr. Huggins loves so much? "Rugby does something that other sports don't do." You have to be prepared to lay your body down for your sisters. Mr. Huggins added, "It takes integrity, intensity, and commitment to play rugby."

Even though Mr. Huggins is retiring from teaching, he won't be retiring from coaching. He is prepared to come back and lead the girls until someone else is willing to take over. "I will die before the Grand River Girls' Rugby program dies," he stated proudly.

Going In For The Kill! Hanging tough, Carolyn Wood tackles her WO opposition. Carolyn has played for the Rugby Team for the last five years, making her the longest Renegade rugger on the team this season. So why has she shown up year after year? "It's the most intense sport I have ever played in my life," she responded.

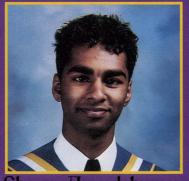

Let's Get Ready To Rumble! During a scrum down, eightman, Jacqui McLaughlin watches over the scrum to see where scrum half, Maricela Rivera, is. The eightman lets her team know where the ball is so the girls know what their next move should be. The scrum is an important part of the game because they retrieve the ball to give to the back line, who runs it down the field.

A Reflection

Looking Back and Remembering Our Days at Grand

o many people say, "High school will be the best days of your life," and so far they were right. Just a few years ago we were all planted here at Grand River as Grade Nines. High school is long learning process academically and emotionally. Without this school we would not have learned what we have, made the friends we did, or most importantly, be who we have become.

The times remembered are different for everyone. Some graduating students have shared their highlights of high school. For Katie Sudds, sports made her life at school more interesting. "I went to OFSAA for hockey once and twice for soccer. I hope I will go one last time this year for soccer." Many of us will look back years from now and remember WCSSAA, CWOSSA, and OFSAA championships and the people we shared our victories with.

There were many trips that we experienced. Emily de Witt looks back fondly to the Algonquin Outdoor Trip that the grade 12 leadership students went on as a reward for their hard work in the community. Emily exclaimed, "The trip was so much fun and it was even a part of class. We really lucked out with the weather as well."

Something that comes easily for students to enjoy are the dances and Semi-Formals, "I love getting dressed up and the music is always awesome," said Tanya Gooding.

On the academic side of things Sarah White stated, "Working on the yearbook staff was a highlight for me because it's something I really wanted. I accomplished my goal." Sarah said she "learned something everyday, and teachers taught [her] more than just lessons. They taught [her] how to grow by encouraging [her]." Many of us are the way we are because of the teachers who have inspired us in the class room.

Something many of us share in common is not necessarily just the highlights but who we experienced them with, our peers. The first day of Grade Nine is scary for everyone. Paul Richer explained "High school introduced me to the majority of my friends. People were so accepting which made it easy to make older and younger friends." Some will remain friends forever and it all began at the home of the Renegades.

Whether it's academics, sports, or friendships we will look back on many special moments that highlighted our years of high school. As we all branch out in all different directions we will always remember our roots at Grand River.

Jen Webb

Just A Little Pinch... A calm and collected Dave Salter waits patiently while donating blood. For many students this was their first time at the clinic and many said they would return for the second drive later in the year.

Rock A-Bye Baby... Tired from all their hard work organizing the Dating Game, Nick Andress and Marco Kennema sneak in a quick nap after The Dating Game. This lunch time event was one of the many activities which were organized for the week of Valentine's Day.

Say What? A surprised Bronwyn Roe sits down for a quick talk with host Mike Guil during GRCIdol. Students auditioned to sing and then were evaluated by a pannel of judges.

t's portrait day at Grand River. As you enter the caf, you quickly notice a sea of yellow shirts running around. Yes, it's Student Exec. Many of the activities that go on here are the product of hours of hard work which these students put in day after day. They are responsible for such things as Valentine's Week activities, GRCIdol, and Hallowe'en activites...just to name a few. Cari Ferguson expressed that she is "glad to be part of a group that helps to make its events fun!" Paul Richer added that, "yes...exec. is fun!"

Student Exec. is more than just fun and games. It teaches the students "a lot of skills that [we] can apply in the future," remarked Nick Andress. He also added that, "although it was a very rough and challenging year, we got a lot accomplished." Eric Houston affirmed that, "exec. has helped me become better with time management and doubling my fun".

One of the main driving forces behind these students is Mr. Williamson, the Student Activities Director. "Yes, he's our teacher but he's so much more. He teaches us so many important skills_and we have a good time doing it!" claimed Melinda Koch. When talking about Student Execto Mr. Williamson he had nothing but positive remarks: "This year's exect is a great group of hardworking kids. All their efforts have helped to make this school year that much better. We are the busiest school in the county when it comes to extra curricular activities and we also have the best activities. I am extremely proud of this group and know that their efforts were greatly appreciated by all the students here."

Another group of committed students is the Leadership Class. The Blood Donor Clinic is one event in which they put a large amount of time and effort. George Vrentzos was one of the students who helped to organize this clinic. He admitted, "It was a lot to put together but it was worth it in the end. We had a great turn out and hopefully even more people come out next time."

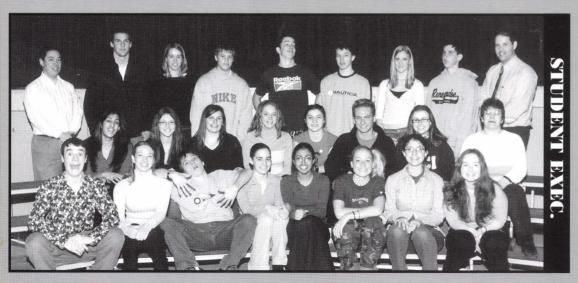

Thanks to these two groups of students, there is never a dull moment at Grand River.

hen most people think of entries submitted. English, things like reading, and a lot of homework come to mind. For others, opportunity is their first thought.

GRCI has many English based activities for students to show their academic smarts. The school newspaper and the debating team are a couple. There are also classes like media studies, Writers' Craft, film studies and Children's Literature.

There are endless possibilities in the English field. Students can also enter their work into writing contests. Anyone is eligible to submit his/her pieces. The English Department then chooses a few to go on to the county level. University professors judge and place the writing

Grand River had seven winners from the Annual Remembrance Day Literary Contest. Bronwyn Roe won first place with an award of $290. She wrote an essay reflecting on the people who fought in WWII. Bronwyn stated, "It was hard to write because I'm not a big supporter of war. It was for the people who stood up for what they believed." Megan Lacoursiere won fourth place for her poem "Sammy." Megan explained, "My poem was about a man whose little brother followed him to war. I wrote a poem because it expressed my story better." Other winners of the contest included Megan Gurton, Peter Swiderek, Brittany Walden, Alanna Julian, and Curtis Moser.

There were other contests for people to enter. Valerie Manica wrote an essay called "Freedom." Her essay discussed how, "rules don't have to restrict someone; they can give you more freedom because rules protect you." She placed first in the competition between the two classes.

Rebecca Patrikas entered her poem "Drift," in a contest and placed first. "I like poetry, it's a more creative way of writing," said Rebecca.

Other winners included Cari Ferguson, Dan Demsey, Paul Milne, Dragana Kukic, Kathy Dumas, Grace Gibney, Robbie Lemon, and Amanda Wakeam.

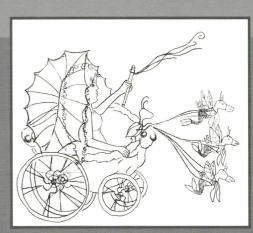

Some students look past the hand cramps from all the writing. English is an opportunity for creativity.

With The Click Of A Mouse... Time is money when you're opening a business. Luke Mydlarz waits for creative inspiration for future business ideas.

Show Me The Money... People anticipating that they will be owning a business attentively tune in for heated entrepreneurship discussions. Emily Shields, Amanda Schmidt and Brandon Corman listen to their classmates discuss proper business etiquette and procedures. Emily added, "It's great to have the experience on how to successfully run a business at an early age."

All Smiles And Butterflies... At the Nashville finals, Kerry Allerton, Mr Milks, Emily Roe and Aman Ahluwalia are all "decked up" for the opening ceremonies.

ver the annoucements one can often hear of DECA meetings, and competitions, but what exactly is DECA? DECA, is actually an acronym for Distributive Education Clubs of America as well as a marketing club. The representatives from the club stationed here at Grand River often get a chance to go on business trips and competitions. Many of the students involved went to Toronto for the DECA competition. It was a three day event, full of many different experiences. They had to write a test, two oral presentations, and a team case study. Natalie Brown, who had a chance to attend, remarked that "DECA gives people good business and marketing experiences. It gives people good experience in interviews or talking to people you don't know."

Emily Roe competed in the Nashville conference, and along with Mr. Milks, Kerry Allerton and Aman Ahluwalia, she packed her bags and set off to the competition. Emily chose to focus on the quick serve restaurant management, and she had to do a case study for launching a new product, customer relations and distribution problems. To prepare, she had a five minute reading period then 10 minutes to solve her case study. After that she had a 10 minute presentation to a judge.

In Nashville she had to write a multiple choice exam, do two case studies and her overall score was based on both of the previous. Over 15 000 high school students attended. But that was not all that went on. Kerry and Aman attended a leadership conference to prepare for next year's chapter. The four also went to a Strokes concert, Dollyland, a DECA dance, shopping and many study sessions. Ultimately, all this was worth the 13 hour bus ride.

So, why get involved in DECA you ask? Greg Anstett says, "I'm glad I joined DECA and I would regret it if I didn't." Aside from that, it improves self-confidence, you meet all sorts of students, travel to cool places and grow as an individual. It teaches you improvisational skills, and jazzes up your resumé, not to mention the excellent interview experience.

Livin' It Up! After a long, hard day of DECA, these girls are ready to sit back, and let the good times roll. On the DECA trip to Toronto Jacqeline Bell, Aman Ahluwalia, Kerry Allerton, Jill Simmons, Katie Gosse, Jill Higgins and Natalie Brown experienced fun and games, but knew when to get down to business. Lauren Zintel stated that, "DECA is the best club. It has awesome people and we have so much fun!"

From Bark to Binder... After long planning hours and lots of hard effort, Co-op student Jelena Uzelac teaches Ms. Little about her placement. rau Park greets her German classes every day with the words "Guten Morgen Kursteilnehmer." Across the hall, Spanish and French students hear greetings in their languages as well.

Students choose to take extra credits in these courses for various reasons. Sascha Garrity takes all three, because "I am interested in becoming a translator. It will also give me more of an edge in life." Filip Mares takes Spanish, acknowledging that, "it was worth it because I found out that I was quite good at it and I was able to speak it down in Mexico."

MIC members dressed in traditional clothing to introduce the school to Diwali, a festival that celebrates the Hindu New Year, by selling desserts, sweet treats, as well as glow sticks. Diwali is also known as the 'Festival of Lights'. "[The lunch hour event] gives the school a taste of what we do," Poonam Javiya explained. The event showed students how another culture celebrates the New Year.

We cannot look back and say that our school was just academics and athletics. It is so much more than that and we all know that Grand River has proudly reflected the diverse cultures in its population.

Branching Off... A Tribute to Our Fine Staff

Mr. Gruhn

Mr. Gruhn will always be known for his contributions in the Business Department at Grand River. Reflecting on his years of being a teacher at Grand River, he says. The kids have been great to work with. Just a lot of good days. Mr. Gruhn says the most rewarding part of his job is seeing students come back and say, Remember me? Mr. Gruhn's fairness and sense of humour will always be remembered among staff and students. His last words of advice for students is. If you put your time and effort in what you do, you will always be successful.

Ms. Henry dedicated her years at Grand River to teach students with learning disabilities. For eight years at GRCI, Ms. Henry has changed the lives of students by helping them with tests and assignments. She says the most rewarding part of her job is seeing students being successful with tests and exams and seeing students graduate. Ms. Henrys future plans include: relaxing enjoying her grandchildren travelling with her husband, and doing some volunteer work.

Ms. Henry

lr. Huggins

Teaching for twenty seven years, Mr. Huggins has taught just about everything, including English, history, math, science, and some tech courses, On top of that, he will be greatly missed for his excellence in coaching the Girls Rugby Team. His future endeavours include a little bit of supply teaching and travelling to Italy, Austria, and France, Mr. Huggins final words are that he believes Grand River is a special place to be for students and teachers.

Teaching at Grand River for six and a half years, Mrs. Scott will be remembered for her ability to put smiles on students faces in the Special Ed. class. When Mrs. Scott began to teach, her goals were to give as much of herself as possible and teach students how to become independent citizens. Her goals were definitely met and she is proud to say that she has had a great teaching career. Mrs. Scott plans on doing a lot of travelling in the future. She plans to travel to Hawaii, B.C. and Mexico.

B There are so many people to thank...To all of you that O participated in Yearbook, you made this class and the book O special! Thank you for all your hardwork, dedication, and K for never hating me for criticizing your pages. Sarah, I couldn't have done this without you. You are my support, my shoulder to cry on, and most importantly...my friend. Don't forget the D times we shared. Mrs. Quanz, thanks for all of your support; I this was definitely worth it! I'm going to miss all of this so T much! Best of luck next year!

"This is the end, beautiful friend. This is the end, my only friend, the end." - The Doors

A year gone already. Many struggles to find sanity on long days in the office. Ups and downs, spiralling out of control, but somehow I made it. We made it together. You guys are awesome. Bevin, many laughs and many cries, but more memories to keep. Mrs. Quanz: Wow, it was worth it. Special thanks to everyone who was there to listen and gave a shoulder to cry on. In case I didn't formally thank you, here it is. Cheers and Enjoy! Long live inspiration...

Cheers to some good times! All the late nights and the early mornings were definitely worth it. Despite the fact my hometime before a deadline was at 10:55 pm (five minutes prior to the alarm system going off), we still had a blast. I'll miss our "girl" talks, Subway breaks, and birthday parties. Welcome to gossip central! Bring it on baby... because I'm lovin' it! We accomplished all this TOGETHER... as a team, of course with the guidance and support from Mrs, Quanz, Bevin and Sarah. I'll miss all you guys!!!

With all the deadlines and computer problems, we can look back and laugh. I had so much fun this year with all the great people involved in Yearbook. I would like to give thanks to Mrs. Quanz for getting me interested in this and to Bevin and Sarah for showing me the ropes. To everyone else, thanks for guiding me along the way.

In ten years I hope to be writing for a C big magazine. I'll look back at the 2003-L 2004 yearbook we created and U where it all started. Mrs. Quanz, Sarah B W. and Bevin, thank you for everything 5 you have taught me. Sarah P., many laughs. And everyone on the yearbook E committee, it's been a privilege working D with all of you. Thanks for making this I so much fun.

Where to begin...late nights until 11, computers always crashing, Laurie - 1t O learned so much this year...mainly about patience! You guys were awesome and I will miss being locked up in that little room with you! Despite all the stressful nights, lack of sleep and frustration, we made it! I'll always remember the parties, and all the laughter, the walks in halls! I never thought I would dislike computers this much! But all in all, you guys were awesome and I will never forget what went on in Room T-103.

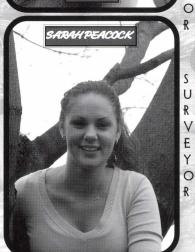

Branching Out! The theme of our yearbook appropriately applies to each O of you who worked incredibly hard to U produce this book of memories. We started off as a class, but quickly became a team: a team ready to meet challenges and create artistic pages. It has been a wonderful experience to A grow with each of you. Special thanks D to Sarah and Bevin for your dedication and commitment. You spent many hours teaching computer skills, editing pages, and building team spirit.

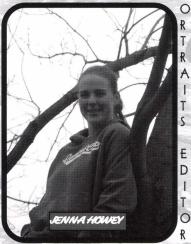

A I will never forget the days I spent in the Yearbook Office trying to think of captions, find quotes, and spell names correctly (hehe). But most importantly, I will never forget the people, the good M times, and the sugar highs! My thanks goes out especially to Mrs. Quanz for her support and to Bevin and Sarah (you are both great editors)! In the beginning, I was "turning over a new leaf," but I am now ready to take it further!

I never knew the extremity of claustrophobia until the day I walked into the Yearbook office. I owe an apology to you guys for ALWAYS playing my music while we worked, and I'm even sorrier to the computers for the verbal abuse I put them through. Survival tips: bring headphones, actually DO your work and don't run with sharp objects. Trust me. Maybe in ten years I'll have figured out what I want to be when I grow up.

R I can't believe this book is finished, (152 pages and 5 ulcers later). This experience has been lots of fun and has taught 5 me so much, I'll never forget those hor-U rible nights cramming for deadlines. I R wouldn't have been able to make it V through them without the help of Bevin, E Sarah, Mrs. Quanz, and my little Jennifer Y Webbifer. Good luck next year every-O one!

Yearbook was a blast. I had an excellent opportunity to improve my photography skills. Even after violent outbursts, giggle fits and our love/hate relationshipwith the computers. It was an awesome, and once in a lifetime experience. 'Il always remember the snacking, the time-managment, and the laughter. Thank you everyone for this excellent experience.

l've never lost so much sleep in my life.

D Bevin and Sarah you were always there

R when I needed you. Jenna, Laurie you

A guys are hilarious... Cindy, you too! Mrs.

M Quanz you make the best cake.

A Megan I envy your hair, Steph ak.a.

Miss Transylvania... you're the best, and

E Christiana... I have to confess, I stole all

D my good ideas from you! Emma, thanks

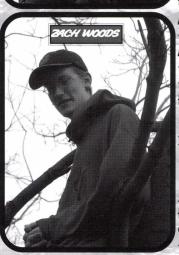

I for your help in English, and Zach, you're

T cool. Sarah P, and Jen W... I love your

O style. And if I don't fall down the stairs

R and break my ankle again, i'll see you all next year, if not in ten years!

E Wow, what a time! Yearbook was magnest, I'm supposed to talk about me, but I think this should be a tribute. First in the I have to thank Bevin and Sarah. Thanks in the I have to thank Bevin and Sarah. Thanks in the I have to thank Bevin and Sarah. Thanks in the I have to thank Bevin and Sarah. Thanks in the I have to thank Bevin and Megan, long nights and in the I have to thank and I have to the I have the I have to the I have the I

Thanks to everyone who was a part of Yearbook this year. You will always be in my heart. Your patience, helpfulness, teamwork, and laughter kept this yearbook coming. We couldn't have done it without everyone's hard work. We learned a great deal about why computers are not "user friendly". Special thanks to Jenna, you're my sanity in this small office.

"Don't find a fault, find a remedy." -Henry Ford. Best wishes and call me in ten years to see where I am.
